Youth Accused of Assaulting Man Will Serve Sentence

James Keene, the knee-pant boy, who was in court yesterday morning and found guilty of assault and battery on Edwin Brown, sentenced to three months in jail and appealed, appeared in court this morning and withdrew his appeal.

The Drunks

Andrew Burke and Jacob Olsen, second offenders, were fined $5 each. Despite the fact that it was Thomas H. Hart's second time before the court within a year, it was his 20th appearance, and he was sent to the state farm. Jeremiah Sullivan was just as shy of Hart on appearance, he making his 20th. He was very lightly afflicted, an undershirt being the only article to cover the nakedness of his upper person.

He was sent to the state farm, appealed, but later withdrew his appeal.

Held in $400

The case of Peter Bellesere, charged with assault and battery and drunkenness, was continued till Oct. 1, bail being placed at $400.

Placed on File

Peter Contos was charged with concealing personal property belonging to the Renton Co. of Boston. The case was placed on file on condition that Contos return the goods belonging to the company.

Three simple drunks were released without appearing in court.

DAIGLE APPEALED

He Was Charged With Assaulting a Constable

Ernest Daigle, in whose shop in Hall street the body of Joseph Gallion was found, who it is alleged was murdered by Napoleon Rivet, was arraigned in police court this morning on a complaint charging him with assault and battery on Charles F. Bradley, a constable, on the 11th of the present month. Daigle entered a plea of not guilty but the testimony offered by the defense was of such a nature that Judge Hadley practically had a Chinese puzzle to solve. The court, however, ironed the matter out and found that the defendant was guilty and imposed a fine of $20, from which the latter appealed. J. Joseph O'Connor appeared for the complainant and A. O. Hanel for the defendant. A civil suit will follow the case heard today.

According to the testimony offered, Welch Bros., the plumbers in Middle street, had some business transactions with Mr. Daigle and the latter was indebted to Welch Bros. Despite the fact that bills had been sent to Daigle and civil suits had been threatened the latter failed to pay and the matter was turned over to Lawyer O'Connor who gave Constable Bradley a writ of attachment to serve on Mr. Daigle. A week ago Friday Constable Bradley went to Mr. Daigle's premises in the Cumberland road and attempted to attach a horse, but he met with a very strenuous objection and instead of getting the horse at that time, he says he was "fired" bodily through the barn door and his feelings were injured.

In court this morning Constable Bradley explained that he had been given a writ of attachment to serve on Ernest Daigle and after calling at Mr. Daigle's house in the Cumberland road was treated in a rather rough manner.

Orrin J. Daigle, a son of the defendant, testified that he was in the barn when the officer arrived and that the first words Mr. Bradley said were, "I want that mare." Witness refused to turn the horse over to the constable claiming that his brother was the owner of the animal.

Mr. Daigle, the defendant, was the next witness. In the first place he testified that he was the owner of the animal in question, but that his son had purchased it, but had not paid for it, therefore he considered that he was the owner. A few minutes afterwards he stated that his son had purchased the horse and loaned it to him, and that he was not the owner of the horse.

Still later Mr. Daigle testified that one of his sons purchased the horse and owned it, and then again witness retracted this statement and said that he was the owner, but had loaned the horse to his son.

On cross-examination Mr. Daigle acknowledged that he owed a bill to the Welch Bros., but said that he intended to pay it. He also acknowledged that he was the person who paid a fine of $10 for assault and battery on one Simon Gaudier.

Oscar Daigle, another son of the defendant, testified along the same lines as did his brother.

During the course of the testimony by the defense it was stated that Constable Bradley was in an intoxicated condition and was staggering about the yard. Lawyer James E. O'Donnell was called in rebuttal and testified that he saw Mr. Bradley several times every day during the present month and never saw him in an intoxicated condition. He also referred to Mr. Bradley's condition on the day of the assault, and said that Mr. Bradley was in a sober condition.

Daigle was found guilty, and a fine of $20 imposed. He appealed and was held under bond for the superior court.

TYPHOON-CHOLERA

Double Evil Has Descended Upon Philippine Islands

MANILA, Sept. 24.—A typhoon of terrific velocity swept through the central portion of the Philippine group, sweeping part of the island of Samar, northern Leyte, southeastern Luzon, northern Paray, Masbate and part of Romblon. The typhoon disappeared in the China sea, moving in a direction west by northwest.

Wires are prostrated and available details of the damage done are meagre. It is evident, however, that serious disaster followed in the wake of the sudden storm. A telegram from a town in Masbate reports that every building in the place was razed with the single exception of the postal building. A despatch received from Romblon says that the typhoon caused a great loss of property and that undoubtedly many persons have been killed.

EPIDEMIC OF CHOLERA
MANILA, Sept. 24.—The epidemic of cholera continues to assume less alarming proportions. The daily average of new cases discovered or reported is about 30. Josephina Hall, an American infant, attacked several days ago, died today. No Americans have been stricken since the last report.

BUILDING NOTES
Mr. H. M. Parker is having erected in the rear of his barn in Pine street nearly opposite the Highland grammar school a villa for his family. It is to be 18 feet in diameter and 22 feet in height.

Contractor Patrick Cogger has a large corps of workmen and teams busily employed in excavating work prior to laying the basement foundation of the new church at the corner of Liberty and Hastings streets.

ENDURANCE RUN

Autos Left Hub for Bretton Woods Last Night

One Woman in the Contest—Autos Will Pass Through This City on Return Trip

At one minute intervals, beginning just as the clocks were tolling 10 last night, 21 motor cars started from Boston on the Bay State A. A. 24-hour endurance run to Bretton Woods and return. With three official cars added, making 24 machines, it made a very good showing for a tour of this kind at this season of the year. The motors will be kept running from start to finish with the exception of the interval for breakfast at the mountain control. There will be three controls on the trip, one at Rochester, another at Bretton Woods and the third at Concord.

The competitors were all at the club at 7 when they were given instructions and numbers for their cars. There was a brief meeting to give contestants a chance to ask questions. Harry Fosdick of New York asked a number of things in order to bring out clearly the interpretation of some of the rules, and he pointed out where mistakes had been made in other such runs. This meeting was over at 8 and the men immediately disappeared like dew before a morning sun.

About 9 there was a general chug chug of motors, blowing of horns and exchanging of greetings as the cars and competitors returned to prepare for the start. Gradually the crowd increased at the corner of Hoytston and Hemenway streets until several hundred were scattered about looking over the machines. The drivers attracted much attention, too, for they were bundled up with clothes in a way that gave an impression they were going on a tour to the Arctic.

As it neared 10 the cars were lined up in the order of starting, with Henry Daigle a few feet from the corner of Daigle street. He had the honor of being the first contestant to give the word. He was driving his own machine, a 1906 Pierce, that has been driven already 30,000 miles. When the word was given he drove through a lane of humanity that extended for many yards around the corner and as his lights were trained on the faces of the people, it gave them a ghastly glare as they shouted a goodby to him.

A car that aroused much curiosity was driven by Mrs. Mabel Stearns of Manchester, N. H. She was well wrapped up and yet she seemed a frail little woman to start on such a hard run. She stated that she expected to drive the car from start to finish without resting. When the crowd saw that there was a woman really competing here was a great cheer, and she smiled as she pushed over the lever and got under way.

Arthur Knights had the job of steering the confetti, and he left on his task before 9 in a Knox. He has been over the route and knows it well, so there will be no error if the cars follow his trail. The first stage of the run took the machines to Rochester, N. H., a distance of 90 miles. They went along the north shore and the running time to that place is five hours. That meant 3 a. m. for the first stop. There they replenished with gasoline, etc., and Chester L. Campbell, manager of the auto shows here, will check them in and out.

DECLARED A TIE

Pulliam's Decision on New York-

Chicago Game

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—President Pulliam, of the National league, today declared yesterday's New York-Chicago game, which ended in a riot to be a tie game.

President Pulliam gave out the following statement:

"In the matter of the New York-Chicago game of Sept. 23 at New York I have received a written report from the umpires in charge of the game, Messrs. O'Day and Emslie. They report that the game resulted in a tie, 1 to 1, and that it was impossible to continue the game after the ninth inning. Without entering at this time into the merits of the controversy that has arisen over this game or passing upon the legality of any decision, the game will be recorded as reported, namely, a tie."

The unfortunate ending of yesterday's game between New York and Chicago in the race for the National league pennant appears to have served only to intensify interest in the struggle which has been at fever heat for weeks.

Today's game will be the last of the year in the New York-Chicago series and arrangements had been made to care for an enormous crowd at the polo grounds.

NATIONAL LEAGUES RESERVED
NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—Harry C. Pulliam, president of the National league, today announced that the following players have been reserved by the Boston National club for the season of 1909.

Ridley, Bill, Bates, Beaumont, Beck of San Francisco; Becker, Bowman, Brouss, Brown, Carrish, Chappell, Deane of Augusta; Dahlan, Donahue, Egan, Essick of Kansas City, Farnsworth, George of Trenton; Graham, Hannigan, Henderson, Hohabest of Augusta; Joy, Lindaman, Mattar, McCarthy, McGarr, Moran, Pierce of Lansing; Ritchie, Simon of Cedar Rapids; Smith, Stern, Thomas, Tucky, Young.

Calumet, Prescott hall, Friday eve. LOST—A silver gold bracelet, between Merriam square and Lane street. Return to Sin office.

WILL NOT TALK

Hitchcock Silent About Haskell's Charge

DURHAM, N. H., Sept. 24.—When the attention of former Secretary of the Interior Ethan Allen Hitchcock, who is at his summer home here, was called to the statement of day, Haskell of Oklahoma especially that part which stated that the Prairie Oil Co. received its franchise "from Roosevelt's secretary of the interior," he said:

"I am very familiar with the oil situation in Oklahoma, but I do not care to comment on it at this time. The former secretary said that his refusal to make any comment was because of his belief that to properly cover the situation would necessitate going into the matter in the fullest detail which he did not desire to do."

100 POLICEMEN

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—The race for the National league pennant, which for weeks has held enthusiasm at its highest point, has not yet finished. The game of yesterday between Chicago and New York, which had it gone to New York, would have given that team a lead which probably could not have been overcome today was declared to be a tie. This was the decision of President Pulliam of the National league after he had received the reports of the umpires who officiated at yesterday's game, which ended in a riot when twenty thousand persons swarmed on the field after they believed that New York had won in the ninth.

As a result of the decision the relative standing is now:

	Won	Lost	P.C.
New York	37	50	.635
Chicago	30	53	.629

It is quite possible that President Pulliam's decision may not be accepted as final. Either team may protest against such a decision any time within five days and ask that the case be taken to the board of directors of the league.

President Pulliam announced that the tie game of yesterday would not be played off today. It is understood that under the rules the game cannot be played off after today.

Police Commissioner Bingham today ordered 100 policemen on duty at the grounds to prevent a repetition of the disorder of yesterday.

The cortege proceeded to St. Patrick's church, where at 9 o'clock a mass of requiem was celebrated. Rev. Timothy Callahan officiating. The choir, under the direction of Michael J. Johnson, sang the Gregorian mass and during services appropriate selections were rendered by members of the choir. Mr. Johnson presided at the organ. BRETTON WOODS, N. M. Hilliard, checking in at 8:45. The tourists breakfasted at the Mount Pleasant house here, an hour and a half being allowed for the stop at this point. No accidents occurred during the night trip. After leaving here the cars will return to Boston through the Franconia, Notch, Plymouth, Franklin and the Merrimack valley, the northern run having been made along the eastern edge of New Hampshire. The only stop on the return trip will be a brief one at Concord for the purpose of checking in. The cars are competing for a cup valued at $200.

ARTHUR I. VORYS

Received Taft's Letter Protesting Against Foraker

Mr. Taft Made Known His Identity Last Evening With Reluctance While Pres. Roosevelt a Day Previous Refused to Disclose It

CHICAGO, Sept. 24.—The identity of the man to whom was addressed Judge Taft's letter protesting against the endorsement of himself and Senator Foraker in the same resolution given out by President Roosevelt Monday evening was disclosed last night. Judge Taft said that he had written the letter to Arthur I. Vorys, chairman of the republican state committee of Ohio. President Roosevelt refused to make the name public. Tuesday, in Cincinnati, Mr. Taft refused either to discuss the letter or to give the name of the man to whom he wrote. At his rooms in the Auditorium Annex last night just before he went to Orchestra hall, Mr. Taft was asked to give the name. He made it plain that he would prefer not to discuss the letter.

"If President Roosevelt did not want to give out the name I don't see why I should," Then he added: "Arthur I. Vorys is the man."

WORKING BOTH SEASONS

CHICAGO, Sept. 24.—Wearing a hat and an overcoat, Wm. H. Taft left Chicago last night on the Chicago & Northwestern railroad for the scenes of the present campaign expedition into the north and central states.

Mr. Taft arrived at Beloit, Wis., where he addressed students of Beloit college and citizens of the town. Five minute speeches are to be made at Janesville and at Evansville, Wis., during the forenoon on the way to Madison, where the presidential candidate is due to arrive at 11 o'clock. From Madison, Mr. Taft's train will head for Milwaukee.

THE COWLEY HEARING

Will be Resumed at City Hall Next Monday

The Cowley case which was assigned for tomorrow has been postponed to Monday and will be held at city hall. The hearing will open at 10 o'clock in the forenoon.

Grade Crossing Hearing
Another grade crossing hearing is scheduled for 2 o'clock Friday afternoon, October 2, at the city hall, room 249. It was thought that the hearing held a few days ago would be the last of the grade crossing hearings and it was so far as the putting on of witnesses was concerned. The hearing to be held Oct. 2, will be a hearing on the question of appointment of expense. In Lincoln and Plain streets the Boston & Maine railroad has a track that it does not use very much, a spur track, while the N. Y. N. H. & H. has main tracks. At School and Walker streets the Boston & Maine and the Nashua & Lowell have tracks. Then comes the question of the bridge across the canal in School street and while this is a question that the commission will not have the right to pass upon the Locks & Canals will be given to understand that it is generally believed that because of the nature of their charter that they are supposed to pay for what ever expense that may be occasioned because of the presence of the canal, which means that the Locks & Canals will be expected to pay for the raising and rebuilding of the bridge. It is expected that work on the crossings will be begun by the railroad in the early spring.

For Evening Teachers
The examinations for candidates for positions as teachers at the evening schools will be held Saturday morning at 8:30 o'clock in the high school building.

No More Typhoid
Up to the noon hour today no new cases of typhoid fever had been reported at the office of the health department. It is not alone in Lowell that typhoid fever is prevalent and it is believed that the great drought has had something to do with it, that the low water, in places, may affect the situation. Then there is the opportunity always open to the operatives in the mills to drink canal water, or worse, strict orders have been issued by the board of health to the mill people and others to furnish their operatives with city water and the board of health reports that in all the mills and factories proper precautions are being taken to prevent the opportunity for getting sick.

Contracts Were Awarded
A contract for 100 cords of cleft oak and maple wood for the charity wood yard, pauper department, was awarded yesterday afternoon to John Brady and a contract for a car load of flour, 200 barrels for the city farm, was awarded to Coffey Bros.

These morning advertisements went out from the business agents' office for various drugs for the dispensary and for 20.00 blank books for the school department.

At his office today it was stated that Purchasing Agent Mackenzie had passed a comfortable night and was feeling some better today and this is the day that the fever is expected to turn.

Permits to Build

The permit to build its new church at the corner of Liberty and Hastings streets was granted yesterday afternoon to John Brady and a contract for a car load of flour, 200 barrels for the city farm, was awarded to Coffey Bros.

ARTHUR HOSFORD
To Wed Maude Ather-ton of Boston

Among the names registered on the book of marriage intentions at the city hall yesterday appeared that of Arthur H. Hosford, former owner of the Opera House, and well known real estate man. Mr. Hosford will wed a Boston woman. The intention as registered reads as follows:

Arthur H. Hosford, (divorced), of Boston, Central street, and Maude Ather-ton, (divorced), of Boston, 142 Beacon street, Boston.

The G.O.-ed intention was also registered yesterday and it goes to show that marriage is not a failure. Thomas Waterborn, (divorced), of Madison in Hudson street, and Ada Mansfield (divorced), of Madison, 15 Dunbar street.

BRYAN AT COLUMBUS

Great Crowds Applaud the Great Democratic Leader

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 24.—Twelve speeches to enormous crowds marked the second entry of William J. Bryan, democratic candidate for president, into Ohio during the present campaign. His concluding speech was made here last night to an overflow crowd of 20,000 persons, while previously he had addressed the largest audience that ever had assembled in Memorial hall.

Mr. Bryan's appearance on the platform created a scene of the wildest enthusiasm. In none of his remarks did Mr. Bryan touch on the bribery charge against Gov. Haskell.

During the day in this city the democratic candidate for president spoke to 4000 precinct committeemen. This was followed by addresses to the Commercial Travelers' league on the trusts and to the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and Firemen. His remarks last night were on the issues of the campaign generally, but his speech to the representatives of the brotherhood was devoted exclusively to the labor question and more particularly the plank in the democratic platform demanding a trial by jury in cases of indirect contempt.

Mr. Bryan spoke against the position of Mr. Taft, that the plank of the democratic platform relating to indirect

"If the appointment of Gov. Haskell a man recently endorsed by the people of a great state and made their governor, so offends the president, what disabilities may we expect from him when he familiarizes himself with the personnel of the executive committee of his own party?"

Referring to Atty.-Gen. Bonaparte's pronouncements about the steel trust, Mr. Kern observed: "While the distinguished Mr. Bonaparte may decline information at the hands of Mr. Bryan because of the latter's candor, can he afford to ignore the information volunteered by Richard Olney, who, without the aid of government experts, has been able to discover that the steel trust really exists?"

STILL AN AMATEUR

John J. Hayes Will Not Turn Professional

BOSTON, Sept. 24.—John J. Hayes, the winner of the Marathon race at London, last evening made the following statement:

"Having received a number of letters from professional runners, the last of which reached me today from Arthur Duffey, the ex-champion 100-yard dash runner, who is now representing Shrubb, the 15-mile runner, I think it time to declare myself regarding my standing as far as running is concerned."

"I have always been an amateur and will remain such. I absolutely refuse to consider any challenge from any person known as a professional, because of my respect for those who have given me my present standing in the amateur ranks and their interest in me, which assisted me in winning the Marathon race at London."

"I always did and always will believe that athletics can be best served by remaining in the amateur class. I feel it my duty at this time to encourage American youth to respect honest sport, and I wish to make it plain to those who persist in issuing challenges that I will take no further notice of them."

DISHONORABLY DISCHARGED.

Priv. Howard Dismissed From the Army

NEW BEDFORD, Sept. 23.—In his cell this afternoon Private William C. Howard of Fort Rodman was served with papers dishonorably discharging him from the army.

In the morning Howard was arraigned in court charged with the murder of his wife. He was in civilian's dress and appeared nervous.

He at first pleaded guilty and then changed it to not guilty. His hearing was set for October 2.

The police discovered, they claim, additional evidence today in support of their theory that Howard threw the woman from Padanaram bridge and returned to Fort Rodman in a rowboat. Two fishermen in the vicinity heard a splash in the water at about midnight and commented upon it, one suggesting it might be the dropping of a lobster not into the water. Soon after they saw a man rowing away from the bridge.

The police have searched Howard's

THE NEW CHURCH TEXTILE NOTES

Will Be a Modern Church Edifice

The following is a general description of the new Branch Street church, designed by Stickney, Austin & Bourke, architects, Boston and Lowell, Mass.

The new church is to be built at the corner of Liberty and Hastings streets. There will be three entrances, the main one at the corner of Liberty and Hastings streets, one on Liberty street, and one from pastor's room on Hastings street.

A novel feature of the plan is that the main Sunday school is on the front, being 35x55 feet with a curved front on Liberty street. This opens into the main church, which is 55x70 feet, from folding partitions to face of platform, a distance of 19 feet, so that one large auditorium may be obtained.

The space occupied by pulpit platform, singers' gallery, organ, pastor's room, baptistry, dressing rooms, etc., is 24x55 feet. The organist will be seated towards the rear of the church. Opening out of the main Sunday school will be four private class rooms, and a primary department 22x24 feet, also a library.

The main entrance will be under a square tower about 18x18 feet square, from this leads a staircase to a room over. There will be a handsome parlor for ladies over the main Sunday school portion will be finished later as a carpet room, kitchen, etc.

The 12 ft. 6 in. slant towards the platform with curved pews. The inside finish will be of brown ash. The ceiling of church at the highest point will be about 22 feet high, and will be composed of part of the trusses showing in space, thus making a very handsome interior.

The outside walls of building will be of brick with stone and granite trimmings. The square tower and the church front will be finished in gray granite. The tower will be finished in light gray granite, and the church front will be finished in light gray granite.

The 12 ft. 6 in. slant towards the platform with curved pews. The inside finish will be of brown ash. The ceiling of church at the highest point will be about 22 feet high, and will be composed of part of the trusses showing in space, thus making a very handsome interior.

$80,000 SUBSCRIBED*For the Irish Cause at the Convention in Boston*M. J. Ryan of Philadelphia Re-elected National President Amid Great Enthusiasm—Stirring Speeches by Messrs. Redmond and Devlin

BOSTON, Sept. 24.—Nearly $80,000 was subscribed and pledged yesterday in Faneuil hall during the closing sessions of the fourth annual convention of the United Irish League of America, and it was subscribed with a heartiness and enthusiasm which must have pleased the Irish cause who set on the platform—John E. Redmond, M. P.; Joseph Devlin, M. P.; and John Fitzgibbon, chairman of the county council of Cork.

It was a great day for Ireland and for the Irish parliamentary cause, of which Mr. Redmond is the leader. Joseph Devlin, one of his able lieutenants and John Fitzgibbon one of its staunchest supporters.

It was a remarkable convention—remarkable for its enthusiasm, which began the preceding day when Archbishop O'Connell, with the Irish envoys and Mayor Hibbard, entered the hall together, and which never abated one jot, but rather grew in intensity up to the last moment.

The convention was also remarkable for the spirit of unanimity and harmony which pervaded it at all times and for the strong determination that was apparent from the start in all the delegates to prove to John E. Redmond their absolute faith in his leadership.

Pres. Ryan Accepts Again

And when at the conclusion of that speech Pres. Michael J. Ryan called for subscriptions the secretaries had difficulty in keeping track of them. Philadelphia led off with $10,000, which was later raised to $15,000; New York pledged $20,000, Massachusetts $10,000, Chicago $10,000, Baltimore $5,000, Brooklyn $5,000, St. Louis $5,000, Washington $5,000, Iowa $5,000, and so on down to individual subscriptions which ranged from $100 to $5.

Pres. Ryan is certainly a wonder as a money getter, and his Philadelphia colleagues responded to his calls. There were more individual subscriptions from the Quaker city than from all the other cities combined.

But great as was all this demonstration over John E. Redmond and the subscriptions, it somehow paled before the storm of applause that broke out when it was announced by the nominating committee that Michael J. Ryan of Philadelphia had consented to accept the office of president for two more years. Pres. Ryan is a cool man on the platform, but when that storm of cheers broke out and lasted for some moments he stood transfixed with a gavel in his hand. All he could say was:

"You can't imagine how I feel!"

Pres. Ryan has sacrificed a great deal in a business way the past two years for the United Irish League. He has worked hard in the cause; he has traveled much, but in that time he has not cost the League a postage stamp. He has paid his own traveling expenses and hotel bills; his postage and telegraph bills—in fact everything has come out of his own pocket, and in addition to all this he has been the largest individual subscriber to the cause.

The delegates were also surprised, however, when they learned that the secretary had spent $70 in two years on his personal expenses traveling and speaking in behalf of the League. John O'Connell, the Irish president, Ryan, clearly was the love of the cause of Ireland and it is small wonder that he, too, got such a whirlwind reception as he did when his nomination to the office of secretary was announced.

The delegates all seemed to breathe easier when these two nominations were announced, but when on top of them came the nomination of John O'Connell, the Irish president, Ryan, clearly was the love of the cause of Ireland and it is small wonder that he, too, got such a whirlwind reception as he did when his nomination to the office of secretary was announced.

The morning session opened at 11 o'clock, and after a few committee reports and brief speeches by James P. O'Connor of North Dakota and Rev. Frank J. O'Hare of Newry, Ire., Sec. O'Connell read his report, which was frequently and loudly applauded.

At the conclusion of the secretary's report, P. T. Barry of Chicago spoke on the loss which the League had sustained in the death of John F. Finerty of Chicago, first president of the League, and one of its earliest and most ardent champions.

Mr. Redmond's Remarks

Then Mr. Redmond was introduced and got a great ovation. He said in part:

"It is four years since I last stood in a national convention in America. You then made certain promises to Ireland, and I, on behalf of Ireland, made certain promises to you. I am here to acknowledge with profound gratitude that you have kept your word to Ireland. And I am here to claim and to show that the Irish party and my colleagues and I have both in the spirit and in the letter kept our word to you. (Applause.)

"You promised us your moral and material support. You have given it. You have sent us $50,000 in cash and you have maintained the honor of this movement in the public mind of America, and in that way given us your moral support."

"We upon our side promised you that we would never permit the lowering of the flag of Ireland, and we promised in addition that we would in the immediate future win great ameliorative reforms for Ireland tending toward the betterment and the elevation of every class of our population."

"Mr. John O'Connell's lecture last night was an unanswerable argument to show what the Irish movement has done. He showed you representations of the wretched hovels which the laborers in the country parts of Ireland were living in. Since I last spoke at a national convention here we have obtained from the British treasury $22,000,000 for the purpose of sweeping these hovels away, and for the erection of 20,000 laborers' cottages, and there are actually completed or in course of erection now over 50,000 laborers' cottages which are replacing the hovels to which I have referred."

"Mr. Redmond then told in detail all that has been accomplished in Ireland the past four years through the Irish parliamentary party, and concluded with a statement of what he and his colleagues hoped for the future. He said:

Home Rule to the Front

"Now, we want to be put in the position of continuing this great work. The hard question is not settled. Fresh legislation is necessary to give compulsory powers to be put in operation."

HON. M. J. RYAN.

against those landlords who refused to sell upon reasonable terms to their tenants. Fresh legislation is necessary in order to break up those great unoccupied prairies and turn them into economical holdings for the people.

"Fresh legislation is needed on the land question to alter its financial basis, so that it will work more rapidly and without any loss to the ratepayers of the country. The government is pledged publicly and privately to introduce immediately when we go back to London a bill to carry those recommendations into law."

"But I tell you quite frankly that I have not too much faith in this government any more than in this English government. But if the government once gets it into its head that the Irish movement is on the downward path and that the Irish party is seriously divided, or that America has fallen away from the support of the national government, then they will find some excuse to postpone this necessary land legislation. If that happened, the result in Ireland would be deplorable."

"You last I spoke here a Tory government was in power, pledged to defeat home rule. We succeeded in driving that government from office. The Liberals came in with a majority so strong that unfortunately they were independent of the Irish party. The result was the national councils bill, which fortunately was rejected by the Irish people. And today the policy of deception, as it is called, is dead. No government will ever again propose a national councils bill."

"The next measure will be a proposal on the lines of Mr. Gladstone's for home rule. The Liberals are pledged, and in spite of the lukewarmness on this matter of Prime Minister Asquith, he also is pledged publicly and privately to make a full home rule one of the living issues of his party before the election at the next general election, which I believe will come in about 12 months. And I also believe that the majority of the people of Great Britain will record their votes in favor of home rule."

"But even if they don't, one thing is certain, and that is that the next government, whether Liberal or Tory, will have a small majority, and the united vote of the 80 men of the Irish party will be an irresistible power."

"At the conclusion of Mr. Redmond's speech Pres. Ryan called for subscriptions and nearly $10,000 was subscribed in a short time, after which came a recess."

After the recess the convention was called to order at 7:30 p. m. and chairman M. J. Ryan read the resolutions of the convention, which had been prepared and in which the work of the Irish party in parliament is lauded. They declare that there should be no disunion from America to Mr. Redmond and his colleagues, and state the purpose to raise a fund of $10,000. The resolutions were unanimously carried.

Then came a call for more subscriptions, and nearly $10,000 more was subscribed, after which came the report of the committee on permanent organization of the officers selected for the ensuing year, as a tribute to which Pres. Ryan read a resolution to accept the call to be the president for two more years.

Joseph E. Devlin

Mr. Devlin was then introduced. He said in part:

"We have been told that we are not the legitimate successors of the Parnell movement and that Mr. Redmond is not the mantle-bearer of Parnell. Well, my answer to that is this: Our constitution is the same, our objects are the same, our principles are the same, our methods are not dissimilar."

"What was the object when Parnell and Davitt first came here to America to appeal for your support? What were the three vital principles in their program and platform? They came here to plead for your support of the Irish movement, to secure land, learning and liberty. I hold in my hand a list of the objects for which Parnell and Davitt began this movement and it is only when one comes to read the purposes and program of that movement that he realizes the wonderful progress that has been made during the 25 years that the movement has existed and especially during the last eight years, when that movement has been guided and controlled by Mr. Redmond."

"The first item in Parnell's program, as it is first in ours, is full national self-government for Ireland. (Applause.) Have we departed from that policy? Do we ever lose an opportunity of pressing forward the question of home rule in season and out of season, in England and in Ireland, in parliament and throughout the world? Why, only within the last 12 months, as Mr. Redmond told you, when in England an attempt was made by liberal politicians to keep home rule in the back ground, he and his party organized the Irish electors of Great Britain to wage war on any liberal who would be false to home rule; and the result was that in Manchester the leading statesman in the cabinet—the man with the greatest future and the greatest hope—has declared on the authority of the premier of England that at the next general election home rule is to be one of the vital issues to be submitted to the electors by the liberal party. (Applause.)

"What is the next question in the program of Parnell? It is the abolition in Ireland of landlordism by means of a universal system of land purchase. And the result was that in Manchester the leading statesman in the cabinet—the man with the greatest future and the greatest hope—has declared on the authority of the premier of England that at the next general election home rule is to be one of the vital issues to be submitted to the electors by the liberal party. (Applause.)

"Then to secure the restoration of the tenants to their lands in Connemara. We have already restored 2000 evicted tenants to their homes. One or two thousand more will be restored. There will be not a single evicted tenant on the land who is neglected or deserted. (Applause.) And that principle of the constitution of Parnell and of our constitution will be again established as one of the results of our labor."

"Then complete educational equality for all creeds in Ireland. One of the who subscribed to the Catholic faith suffered from the inequality before the English law there. The university bill of this year will secure those rights and those opportunities for higher education which will enable the youthful intellect of Ireland to develop to the level of the brightest race in the world and allow our youth to go out into the market in competition with people of other faiths and enable them to win their way with well-equipped minds and intellectual development to positions of trust and responsibility which never can be guaranteed to these youth without the benefits thereby secured. (Applause.)

Reference to Sinn Féin

"Then there are the compulsory extension of the law providing laborers with cottages, and the proposal as to the preservation of the Gaelic language and the measures for the promotion of Irish industries, all of which Mr. Redmond has told you about and for which our party has done so much and will do more."

"Now, my friend, with that record before you, you are asked at this critical moment in Ireland's fortunes to change all this and set up some other policy vaguely described by various people in a varied way. What is the alternative to the policy of the Irish party? It is what is known in Ireland, though it practically does not exist in Ireland, as Sinn Féin, and it is known in America as the policy of the Clan-na-gael. (His- ses.) Well, what is the Sinn Féin?"

"When I came to America six years ago I was surprised that any Irish-American could offer any opposition to this movement. I met a great many people, some of whom differed from us, and I invited them to offer their alternative to the policy of political sanity and genuine reform which has been presented to you today by the leader of the Irish party. They told me that their policy was physical force. Well, I have the greatest possible admiration for people who believe in physical force. I have the greatest contempt for people who talk about physical force and don't believe in it. (Loud applause.)

"At all events, to me the policy of physical force under present conditions and the conditions that existed then was so ludicrous and I speak as one who comes from Ireland and knows the conditions—that I could not possibly argue or reason with men who would put forward such impudent and impossible theories; and I came back here at the end of six years and find that the same policy of opposition and misrepresentation goes on."

"I invite our critics and assailants now to tell us: Do they still cling to the old policy of physical force? The men who four years ago told me I was a traitor to Ireland because I told them it was impossible, now state in the very first line of their circulars that physical force is impossible. (Laughter.)

"They would have our parliamentary party retire from Westminster and refuse to acknowledge English law in Ireland. But where would have been all these reforms for Ireland, if we had done that? (Applause.) If these men speak to us, we are entitled to turn on our assailants and ask them to allow us to examine their credentials. (Loud applause.)

From New Zealand

James Gleason of New Zealand made one of the most taking speeches of the day. Speaking with a decidedly English accent, Mr. Gleason said:

"I am probably the first New Zealand-er who has ever addressed an Irish audience in Boston. I am here quite by accident, now on the fall end of a journey round the world, but of all the sights I have seen there is no spectacle more inspiring to me than this demonstration of Irish patriotism here today."

"I notice on one of the banners here the name of John Boyle O'Reilly. It may be of interest to you to know that I have had the honor of seeing the prison cell in which a cruel English government imprisoned John Boyle O'Reilly for many years in West Australia and I have tried and been unable to lift the chains with which that patriot and orator's feet were manacled and weighed down."

"England the other day sent to our country the demand that we should double our contribution to the English navy. She thinks we have forgotten O'Reilly, but some day she will learn we have not forgotten him. (Applause.) The reply to that demand of England was that we deeply regret—it is almost in the words of Mr. Deakin, the prime minister—'We cannot send you any further contributions to the navy. We are about to build a battleship of our own. Long live Australia!' (Loud applause.)

"Mr. Gleason then told of the state railways in the colony, its pioneer work in establishing the old-age pensions and of the leading statesmen and officials of Australia, who were men of Irish birth or lineage. He said that colony would give the Irish envoys $100,000 for the cause the next time they visited the island."

Anty Drudge Explains Why the Waist Went into Holes.

Mrs. Don'tno—"I must have been cheated in that woolen waist. It pulled right into holes in the washtub."

Anty Drudge—"You wouldn't think you were cheated if you got a leg of mutton which boiled that tender. It was the boiling that weakened your waist just as it makes meat or vegetables tender. Stop boiling your clothes. Wash them with Fels-Naptha in cool or lukewarm water, and they'll wear twice as long."

What are clothes made of?

Wool, cotton or linen, animal or vegetable fibre.

What does boiling or scalding do to them?

Makes them tender just as it does meat or vegetables.

What does hard rubbing on a washboard do to them?

Wears them into holes before their time.

Are you abusing your clothes like that in the weekly wash?

Burning up fuel and working like a slave to do it?

There's a far better way to get clean clothes.

Let Fels-Naptha soap take the dirt out of them in cool or lukewarm water without boiling, without hard rubbing.

It saves the clothes—makes them last twice as long.

In summer or winter, it saves fuel, time, hard work, bother and discomfort.

Directions for the Fels-Naptha way of washing are printed on the back of the red and green wrapper.

Follow them carefully.

INJURIES FATAL

Constable Stabbed by Cranberry Picker

MIDDLEBORO, Sept. 24.—Constable James E. Vaughan of South Carver, who was stabbed last Sunday while attempting to arrest John Monte, a Portuguese cranberry picker, on the charge of assault, died last night of his injuries.

Vaughan has been at the home of Gustavus H. Long, near the scene of Sunday's battle. Up to yesterday his condition appeared favorable for recovery but he had a sudden sinking spell yesterday afternoon and died a few hours later. He was about 50 years old.

The struggle in which Constable Vaughan received his death wound resulted from his efforts to arrest Monte, who was wanted for an attempted assault on Arthur C. Atwood, the foreman of the cranberry picking grounds where Monte was employed. Atwood assisted Vaughan when the constable went to arrest Monte and the constable had been stabbed in the side by Monte's dirk. Atwood drew a revolver and fired a shot which entered Monte's temple killing him instantly. Atwood, who was himself stabbed several times, was taken to the hospital in Plymouth and is reported as on the road to recovery.

BOY WAS KILLED

Little One Struck by Automobile

BEVERLY, Sept. 24.—An automobile driven by Charles M. Amoy of Boston, struck and fatally injured Donald Gilmarlin the seven-year-old son of Daniel Gilmarlin, on Haskell street yesterday afternoon. The Gilmarlin boy, who was returning from school, ran suddenly in front of the car. Mr. Amoy ran his automobile up on the sidewalk to avoid hitting the boy but the distance between them was too small. Mr. Amoy picked the lad up and after taking him to the residence of Dr. Jackson went to the police station and gave himself up. He furnished $5000 bonds for his appearance in court.

Later the boy was taken to the Beverly hospital where he succumbed to his injuries.

600 RECRUITS

Raised Here to Fight Against U. S. of Colombia

BOSTON, Sept. 24.—The Boston Post this morning prints the disclosure of an alleged filibustering expedition to start from this city on Oct. 1st, composed of 600 men, fully armed and equipped, for the overthrow of the United States of Colombia in South America.

Attention was first called to the proposed expedition by advertisements in local papers several months ago calling for recruits, graduates of the United States army and navy preferred, the advertisements being signed merely "W. A. B."

According to the Post, offices were opened in Boston, Worcester and Lynn, and 600 men were secured.

The recruiting was under the direction of W. A. Blanchard, mining engineer, with offices in New York.

Musker carbines, United States cavalry sabres, .45-caliber revolvers, four machine guns and two hotchkiss guns, with other equipment. It is claimed, had already been purchased from Bliss & Co. and Francis I. Bannerman of 34 Broadway, New York city.

A British tramp steamer had been secured, it is claimed, to transport the troops and arms to South America. A sailing schooner has to take the men and arms out of Boston harbor to the three mile limit, where the tramp steamer would be met.

That ship was to proceed to the Caribbean and land the force at the mouth of the Magdalena river, from which point the forces would march upon Barranquilla, ten miles inland, and attack the government houses.

It is claimed that the expedition was hatched in Colombia last year, and arose through the jealousy of former members of the cabinet of President Rafael Reyes.

est attendance 280, and our largest 900. We have had a variety of subjects: Rural Law, Poultry, Cattle, Rural Life, Gardening, Farming and Pork Raising—and a good entertainment for each afternoon meeting, such as debates, singing by the school children for prizes, singing by Reading Glee club, story telling by Normal school teachers, and prize speaking by the children, all of which were both pleasing and interesting.

I thank you, gentlemen of the board of trustees, for the handsome treat you gave me in the form of a trip to Washington—my visit to the national capitol being especially pleasing—and hope that what points I have been able to gather will prove beneficial to the work.

Respectfully submitted,

When all business had been dispensed with, a dinner was served in the hotel dining room, after which the meeting was adjourned until October 2.

Mr. Frost who has not had the use of his eyesight for 40 years past, was born in Tewksbury 73 years ago and came to Lowell when he was 20 years old, remaining a citizen here since. Mrs. Frost was born in Hampton, Me., and came to Lowell about the same time as her husband. They were married by Rev. Mr. Cloud of the St. Paul's M. E. church.

The house yesterday was prettily decorated for the occasion and Mr. and Mrs. Frost were assisted in receiving by their son, Charles E. Frost and his wife and their daughter Jessie.

HEDGEWOOD BOY

Strong Favorite Defeated by Citation

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 24.—Hedge-wood Boy, such a strong favorite for the free-for-all race yesterday afternoon's grand circuit card that he was buried in the first heat, was defeated by Citation, but the Illinois mare had to set a world's record to do it. Her heats in 2:10 3-4 and 2:11 following one by Hedgewood Boy in 2:02 1-2 and the fastest ever paced here. Citation was only nosed out in the first heat and won the second by a scant head after a grueling mile, the last quarter being paced in 30 1-2 seconds.

Hedgewood Boy and his rival were about even choices for the third and decisive mile. McMahon trailed with Citation to the head of the stretch when he swung the mare out wide and raced Hedgewood Boy into the ground.

The Harvard did the best 2-year-old trotting of the year when he won the Kentucky sock farm futurity in straight heats.

Happy Women

Plenty of Them in Lowell and Good Reason For It

Wouldn't any woman be happy. After years of backache suffering. Days of misery, nights of unrest. The distress of urinary troubles. She finds relief and cure?

No reason why any Lowell reader should suffer in the face of evidence like this:

Mrs. Margaret Lyons, living at 25 Cross st., Lowell, Mass., says: "In return for the benefit I derived from Doan's Kidney Pills I gladly give them my endorsement. I suffered for some time from dull, nagging backaches, and some days could hardly get around to attend to my work. The secretions from my kidneys were too frequent in action, and were a source of great annoyance. Doan's Kidney Pills, which I procured from Ellingwood & Co.'s drug store soon relieved the backaches, and corrected the kidney disorder. My daughter also tried this remedy with benefit and thinks just as highly of it as I do."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-McMillan Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Both been there before

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—Both Nat Goodwin, the noted comedian, and Maxine Elliott, his actress wife, whom he is suing for divorce at Reno, Nev., before Goodwin's first wife was Eliza Weatherly, who died in 1887. He then married Nella Baker Pease of Buffalo, who sued him for divorce in 1891. The suit resulted in a long litigation. Miss Elliott's first marital experience was with George A. McDer-mott, a lawyer and mayor's marshal under Mayor Grace of New York, whom she divorced in 1897. She was married to Mr. Goodwin in 1898. She is one of the most beautiful women on the American stage. Her sister Gertrude is the wife of Forbes Robertson, the English actor.

DEBT REDUCED

Good News for First Trinitarian Church

The debt on the First Trinitarian Congregational church has been reduced within a year from $5900 to $2500.

This announcement was made by the pastor, Rev. George F. Kenagott, at the annual harvest supper of the church, held last night.

The auditorium and vestry were crowded with members of the congregation and the supper, given under the direction of the Ladies' Benevolent society was a very pleasant affair and a great success.

The evening's entertainment opened with an organ recital in the auditorium from 6 until 7 o'clock, with Walter W. Coburn officiating at the organ.

Promptly at 7 o'clock the procession for the march to the dining room in the vestry formed and made its way to the lower floor, to the music of a spirited march played on the piano by Miss Elsie Gragin.

During the supper hour and the rest of the evening also, there were musical selections on a phonograph given for the occasion by a well known local firm.

Shortly after 8 o'clock Rev. George F. Kenagott, pastor of the church, called the gathering to order and then spoke for a few moments on the prospects for the year. He then introduced the various speakers of the evening, who were as follows:

Deacon O. A. Brigham, who spoke on the church; Albert A. Ludwig, superintendent of the Sunday school, who talked on that institution; Mrs. O. A. Brigham, who told of the work of the Benevolent society; Mrs. H. H. Sumner, who spoke for the Maternal association; Dr. H. H. Sumner, the clerk of the church; James Stuart Murphy; Mrs. George F. Kenagott, who was being done in providing music for the church; and Rev. Sarah A. Dixon, the associate pastor.

One of the pleasantest surprises of the evening were the facts presented by Rev. Mr. Kenagott in regard to the church debt. That debt, which a year ago amounted to $5900, has now been reduced to $2500, with every prospect of another reduction of $500 in the near future. The news was very heartily applauded.

Sixty new members have joined the church in the past 12 months, 50 of whom have joined since last January. It was stated that this year there will be three choruses at the church, the children's, the young people's, and the adults'. It is expected that all three will sing at the services next Sunday morning.

The children's chorus is to meet Mondays at 4:30 o'clock; the young people's, Thursdays at 3:30; and the adults' Fridays at 7 in the evening.

There will be a young women's symposium class every Monday evening, under the direction of Mrs. Kenagott. Capt. Walter R. Jeyes, commander of Company C of the Sixth regiment, has consented to act as instructor of the Boys' Brigade at the church this year, and that body will be reorganized about the middle of October.

THEATRICAL NOTES

The gowns worn by Miss Alexandra Carlisle in "The Mollusc" were made by Paquin, of Dover street, London. Of entirely new design and exceptionally rich material, Miss Carlisle's three gowns call for particular mention. The first, a white gown relieved by a sparkle of silver in the embroideries, is of fine white net in a striped design—the skirt is full and tucked at the bottom with white satin, but is beautifully adjusted by downward tucks from the waist, over which lappets, fringed and embroidered in white and silver, hang from the short Empire bodice, which is also handsomely embroidered to correspond—the sleeves are long—the transparent yoke is of white tulle with high tucked neckband and ruche. In the second act Miss Carlisle wears a graceful gown of soft yellow oriental satin, the clinging tulle worked in arabesques in pink crystals and silks, on the yellow net—the corresponding embroidery on the bodice hargling in points and finished with tassels. Miss Carlisle's third act costume is a tea-gown of pale blue mousseline de soie, inset with fine silk lace and incrustated with guipure of the same shade, opens in front and is slashed at the sides, showing a skirt of pale rose chiffon trimmed with ribbons of the same shade; the sleeves are also slashed, forming long ends which are weighted with tassels. A dainty cap of white Valenciennes lace trimmed with ribbon accompanies this charming creation.

Miss Constance Collier, the distinguished English actress, who is to be leading lady for William Gillette in the new Bernstein play "Samson," has arrived in New York on the steamship Mauretania. Miss Collier was handed the part she will play in "Samson" the moment she stepped upon the dock, with a request from Mr. Frohman that she proceed immediately to the "Samson" rehearsal, being held in the Empire Theatre. Miss Collier will play in the American version of "Samson," the role which brought fame to Mme. LeBarry in the Paris production. This is Miss Collier's first visit to America. Her most recent London performances were as leading lady for Beerbohm Tree at His Majesty's theatre.

The frequent confusion that arises about the actress generally known as Madame LeBarry, but sometimes called Mile. Simone, comes from this fact. Madame LeBarry, celebrated all over France for her superb Flora in "The Honor of the Family" and for her equally charming Jacqueline in "Love's Whirlwind," at the height of her career married M. LeBarry and naturally took his name. Then they were divorced, and in France, where the law allows the divorced husband if he wishes, to oblige the divorced wife to discontinue the use of his name. So Madame LeBarry now appears on the program of whatever play she happens to be in. Mile. Simone, she is described as a woman of wonderful versatility—an actress to conjure by when one would cite an instance of resourceful intelligence and imagination in stage characterization.

REPLY TO BRYAN

Roosevelt Repeats the Charges of Haskell

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—President Roosevelt last night, following upon a prolonged conference with members of the cabinet at the White House prepared and gave out his reply to W. J. Bryan, the democratic candidate, relative to the charges that Governor Haskell, treasurer of the democratic campaign committee, had represented Standard Oil interests both in Ohio and Oklahoma. Mr. Bryan had demanded proof of the charges, promising that in the event of their substantiation Gov. Haskell would be eliminated from the campaign.

Dismissing the Ohio case, which involved an allegation of attempted bribery, with the explanation that he had made no direct charge against Gov. Haskell as regards that particular instance, President Roosevelt takes up the matter of the Prairie State Oil and Gas company and argues that Gov. Haskell's action in stopping legal proceedings begun by the attorney-general of Oklahoma, demonstrates conclusively that he was controlled by the great corporation to which the Oklahoma company was subsidiary.

After contrasting Mr. Bryan's defense of Governor Haskell as against Judge Taft's repudiation of Foraker in connection with W. H. Hearst's charges against the Ohio senator, the president proceeds to declare that Gov. Haskell's "utter unfitness for association with any man anxious to appeal to the American people on a moral issue" has been abundantly shown by other acts of his as governor of Oklahoma. The president condemns Gov. Haskell's conduct in connection with various matters as disgraceful and scandalous and calls such attention to which he describes as "prostituting, to base purposes the state university."

This fresh charge against the governor rests on an article in the Outlook from which the president quotes and which, he says, forms the conclusion that Gov. Haskell is unworthy of any position in public life.

The latter portion of Mr. Roosevelt's deliverance is devoted to criticism of Mr. Bryan's plan for regulating the trusts, which he characterizes as a measure that sounds more radical than any advocated by the republicans but which in practice would not work. Concluding, Mr. Roosevelt declares that "no law-defying corporation has anything to fear from Mr. Bryan."

save what it would suffer from the general paralysis of business which would follow democratic success."

The president spent almost the entire day in getting the letter in shape. An hour was given in the morning to making a rough draft of it, which was submitted to Secretary Garfield and Postmaster-General Myers, both of whom made suggestions as to portions of the communication. In the afternoon all the members of the cabinet now in the city, Secretary Wilson, Straus, Wright, Metcalf and Garfield and Postmaster-General Myers met with the president in the cabinet room at the executive offices for a conference on the subject which lasted until after five o'clock. Two hours more were required to make minor changes before Secretary Loeb gave it to the press.

Deeming the reply too long to be sent by wire, the method of communication Mr. Bryan had employed in his challenge to the president, it was forwarded by mail to the democratic candidate at Lincoln, Neb.

TWO MEN HELD UP

They Were Asked to Hand Over the Money They Had

The police are on the lookout for a couple of men who, in all probability, are associated with the yeggs who have been working in this section of the state. The men in question held up two young men in Plain street the day before yesterday.

Meeting a young man in Plain street, between the Harvard Brewery and Chelmsford street, the yeggs relieved him of a dollar bill. Almost immediately afterwards they met Joseph McMahon, who resides in Chelmsford street, and demanded that he hand up his hands and turn over what money he had.

McMahon offered to deliver the money he had in his pocket, but seeing an opportunity to escape, took to his heels, and while the men hotfooted after him, he was a better sprinter and when he turned into Chelmsford street his pursuers dropped the chase and hurried off in the opposite direction.

The matter was reported to the police but the description given them is very meagre and the men are still at large.

Sec. McKenna of the board of trade and treasurer of the Lowell Automobile club, today received a letter from Lucius Tuttle of the Boston & Maine, asking him to call upon the treasurer of the Boston & Maine R. R. at his earliest convenience and receive a check for $450, as the contribution of the railroad toward the expenses of the recent automobile races.

Sec. McKenna has also received a check for $250 from Frank E. Dunbar toward the race fund and $100 from Geo. M. Harrigan and $100 from the Boston and Northern street railway.

The promoters of the race in a few days will issue a detailed statement of the expenditures necessitated by the race.

OFFERED A BRIBE

Compers Also Says He Was Followed by Detectives

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—That he had not only been followed by detectives but had been offered a large bribe to desert the cause of labor, connecting with that charge the name of President James Van Cleave of the National Association of Manufacturers was the sensational declaration made by President Samuel Compers of the American Federation of Labor in the contempt proceedings against him and other federation officers by Examiner Harper.

The statement was made in the cross examination of Mr. Compers by Attorney Raiston.

Mr. Compers related the particulars of a persistent effort to have himself followed, which he said, had occurred in Washington in the latter part of the summer of 1907 and had continued for several days. He said he had been followed day and night for some time. Finally Mr. Compers said:

"I recognized him and he was a member of a Masonic fraternity. He then told me that he would desert from pursuing me and admitted that he was a detective, saying that Mr. Van Cleave had employed him to do me."

The cross examination then bore on the question of bribery.

WITHDREW APPEAL

Youth Accused of Assaulting Man Will Serve Sentence

James Keene, the knee-pant boy, who was in court yesterday morning and found guilty of assault and battery on Edwin Brown, sentenced to three months in jail and appealed, appeared in court this morning and withdrew his appeal.

The Drunks

Andrew Burke and Jacob Ohlsen, second offenders, were fined $5 each.

Despite the fact that it was Thomas H. Hart's second time before the court within a year, it was his 31st appearance, and he was sent to the state farm.

Jeremiah Sullivan was just one day off Hart on appearance, he making his 26th. He was very lightly attired, an undershirt being the only article to cover the nakedness of his upper person.

He was sent to the state farm, appealed, but later withdrew his appeal.

Held in Jail

The case of Peter Bollerose, charged with assault and battery and drunkenness, was continued till Oct. 1, bail being placed at $50.

Placed on File

Peter Contos was charged with concealing personal property belonging to the Tenney Co. of Boston. The case was placed on file on condition that Contos return the goods belonging to the company.

Three simple drunks were released without appearing in court.

TYPHOON-CHOLERA

Double Evil Has Descended Upon Philippine Islands

MANILA, Sept. 24.—A typhoon of terrific velocity swept through the central portion of the Philippine group, sweeping part of the island of Samar, northern Leyte, southeastern Luzon, northern Panay, Masbate and part of Romblon. The typhoon disappeared in the China sea, moving in a direction west by northwest.

Wires are prostrated and available details of the damage done are meagre. It is evident, however, that serious disaster followed in the wake of the sudden storm. A telegram from a town in Masbate reports that every building in the place was razed with the single exception of the postal building. A despatch received from Romblon says that the typhoon caused a great loss of property and that undoubtedly many persons have been killed.

EPIDEMIC OF CHOLERA

MANILA, Sept. 24.—The epidemic of cholera continues to assume less alarming proportions. The daily average of new cases discovered or reported is about 30. Josephine Hall, an American infant attacked several days ago, died today. No Americans have been stricken since the last report.

SEN. LAFOLLETTE

SAYS A WORD IN BEHALF OF CANDIDATE TAFT

MADISON, Wis., Sept. 24.—The political future of William H. Taft's trip through Wisconsin occurred here at noon when United States Senator Lafollette, addressing an immense audience of the farmers' national convention placed himself on record in most enthusiastic praise of the republican candidate whom he introduced to the audience. Senator Lafollette missed the Taft special party early this morning but caught up with it here. The senator began his speech with the remark:

"The desire to be absolute and exact as to what I shall say here today has brought me for many reasons to commit it to paper."

The senator turned to Mr. Taft and said:

"Nature gave him poise, judicial temperament, great force of character and tenacity as to purpose. His long life in the public service is distinguished for its marked ability, its wisdom, its integrity, its patriotism. He has taken an advanced ground upon the great issues that are engaging the profoundest thought of the people of this great country."

"Now from a somewhat intimate acquaintance with him for the past twenty years, I say today that he is progressive in principle, and he is equipped most wonderfully in experience."

WAS FINED $25

DAN R. HANNA WAS SCARED BY POLICE JUDGE

CLEVELAND, Sept. 24.—Dan R. Hanna was forced to listen to an arraignment by both the prosecutor and the judge in police court yesterday and then to pay a fine of $25 and costs for detaining a woman on the face with his wife on July 1st.

At the hearing yesterday it was shown that Hanna's automobile impounded the car of Hanna's coach and that Hanna used his wife on Logan street, a woman who was seriously injured but recovered.

"The attack was unprovoked. A man who would do such a thing is dangerous," said Judge McGinnis, assessing the fine. "Exemption is no excuse," said Prosecutor Dan Cull. "The attack was without call and shows an evil disposition."

The annual outing, the city council's annual gala day, is being held at "Billy" Dodge's camp on the bank of the Merrimack river in Wyngboro this afternoon. An excellent dinner will be served and sports, the manner of which will be a ball game between picked teams and captained by Alderman Inghy and Butterworth, will be indulged in.

BLAMES HIS WIFE

MAN SAYS THAT SHE IS CRUEL TO HIM

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—Justice Gelbach of the supreme court reserved decision yesterday on an application by Martha Schmidt for attorney and counsel fees pending the trial of a suit for separation begun by her husband, Max E. Schmidt, who runs a restaurant at 339 Broadway.

Schmidt complains that his wife attacked him on May 1, 1907, and inflicted "some personal injury," besides taking out his diamond scarfpin and throwing it in the gutter. He also charges that on May 21 last she invaded the restaurant and made away with the day's receipts, which she deposited in her stocking. For these and other reasons he believes it unsafe to live with her.

Mrs. Schmidt denies that she has been cruel to her spouse and says that his bad temper and bad language led to all their troubles.

STAMP THIEF

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—Daniel F. Daly, advertising manager for the H. B. Claffin company, was arrested last night on a charge of having stolen $120 worth of two cent stamps entrusted to him by the firm for the mailing of advertising circulars. Geo. F. Cornwall, counsel for the company, made the complaint, but said afterward that the firm had really lost about $100 through Daly's manipulation of the stamp driver.

Daly, who is a young man and a Yale graduate, did not deny the charge against him, but said that he had taken the stamps in order to enable him to keep up an appearance. He was paid $30 a week, he said, but couldn't afford to live at Bretton hall, as he did, on such a slender income. He stole the stamps to make up the deficiency. He was locked up in police headquarters.

GETS HIS SENTENCE

Murphy, Alias Gridley, Given Two and One Half Years

Frank Murphy, who travels under many aliases but whose right name is said to be Merrill S. Gridley, was arraigned in the superior court, Cambridge, yesterday and found guilty of larceny from the person and sentenced to two and one-half years in the house of correction.

Last Friday a man who gave the name of Murphy and who is serving a long sentence at Deer Island, Boston, was brought before the court charged with larceny from the person, but he gave testimony that he was an inmate of the institution at Deer Island on the date on which it was alleged he attempted to pick a pocket in this city.

An investigation showed that the man wanted by the local police had given a different name when sent to the island and the mixup was the result.

Murphy or Gridley travels under many aliases and came to Lowell on June 3, a circus day, and his peculiar actions at the Middlesex street station attracted the attention of Patrolman Cawley. While the man acted in a suspicious manner jumping on and off trains the officer did not place him under arrest inasmuch as he had no evidence against him. When Patrolman Cawley was relieved shortly after six o'clock he notified Patrolman Frank Donovan and John Clark to keep an eye on the man.

It was not long after that the officers saw Murphy and another man attempt to pick a man's pocket on a train which pulled into the station. After a lively tussle he was placed under arrest and when arraigned in court probable cause was found and he was held for the grand jury, bail being placed at $500.

Despite the fact that the prisoner gave the name of Frank Murphy, two Boston inspectors were present on the day of the trial and they identified him as one Merrill S. Gridley, better known to the profession as "Red" Creighton, but who had traveled under the following aliases: William Brown, William Kimball, Patrick McCarthy, John Franklin, John Morrissey, John Scott, Frank Johnson, George Jones and Frank Thomas.

A few days after he was sentenced to appear before the grand jury a Boston attorney went bail for him. The following day Murphy was arrested in Boston and pleaded guilty to a charge of attempting to pick a man's pocket on an electric car. He was sentenced to nine months at Deer Island.

HASKELL'S LETTER

He Says That Hearst is Only a "Loud Talker"

GUTHRIE, Okla., Sept. 24.—Gov. Haskell issued the following statement today:

To W. R. Hearst.

Sir: You claim that there is need for a new political party and have sought to organize such an organization and have formulated a platform. Below you will find every declaration of state principles in your platform and you will also find that in every instance except one the democracy of Oklahoma in framing the constitution and acts of the first legislature's session has covered everything you recommend.

You also find that the democratic platform covers them with only two exceptions as indicated below.

You will observe, Mr. Hearst, that the progressive democracy of the southwest actually does things while you are devoting your life to simply talking about that which might be done.

I also beg to remind you that last winter when congress was in session Oklahoma through Senator Owen, in the senate and Scott Ferris, member of the house of representatives at Washington, introduced proper resolutions providing for amendments to the constitution of the United States, among others, the following:

A—to elect a national popular vote.

B—to legalize national income tax.

C—to constitutionalize an employers liability act, (which you know according to the supreme court of the United States cannot be enacted under the present constitutional limitations.)

D—to prohibit interstate commerce shipments of convict-made goods into states where by state law convict labor is prohibited from competing with free labor.

I wrote you when these resolutions were introduced in congress and appealed to you for your official and editorial assistance. You ignored both.

Your services might have been very beneficial on that occasion.

Such things as this lead me to believe that you are a loud talker but not a doer.

If Oklahoma democracy has done in two years practically all you recommend in your platform why don't you help those who do things instead of opposing their efforts.

In Oklahoma we believe that the organization of labor is indispensable to securing humanity and protecting the laborer.

We want respect to these principles to be the part of the education of children and the practice in mature years.

Therefore we have begun by requiring the school child to appear on the common school books.

No doubt three-fourths of the common school books are used by children of those who toil in the field, the mines, the shops.

Now let those who buy these books from the Oklahoma plan and the union demand that the school book is the union.

Even in Oklahoma it won't all be done at once but the good work is started. Let us all keep it going.

Have you done as much? If so, when and where?

The Oklahoma constitution is considered by all to be a needed basic law in defense of a human right and happiness.

Have you done as much? If so, when and where?

Results speak louder than promises.

OFF FOR CINCINNATI

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 24.—W. J. Bryan was an early riser today. He at once read the letter of President Roosevelt responding to the telegram in reference to the charge that Gov. Haskell of Oklahoma had been identified in an improper way with the Standard Oil company's interests, but said he would not make any comment on the president's reply at present.

He left at 9:20 for Cincinnati and will make a number of speeches en route, the principal ones being at Springfield and Dayton. A stop of several hours will be made at the latter place.

POLICE BOARD

To Hear Charge Against Officer

The board of police will hold a special meeting tonight for the purpose of giving a hearing to Officer D. J. Murphy, who, in behalf of Messrs. Mastum and Morgan, prefers charges against Patrolman Daniel C. Brennan. As to whether the hearing will be public or private is not known as yet, though it is thought that Lawyer Daniel C. Donahue, counsel for Mr. Brennan, will ask for a private hearing.

6 O'CLOCK ENDURANCE RUN Autos Left Hub for Bretton Woods Last Night

One Woman in the Contest— Autos Will Pass Through This City on Return Trip

At one minute intervals, beginning just as the clocks were tolling 10 last night, 21 motor cars started from Boston on the Bay State A. A. 24-hour endurance run to Bretton Woods and return. With three official cars added, making 24 machines, it made a very good showing for a tour of this kind at this season of the year. The motors will be kept running from start to finish with the exception of the interval for breakfast at Bretton Woods and return. There will be three controls on the trip, one at Rochester, another at Bretton Woods and the third at Concord. The competitors were all at the club at 7 when they were given instructions and numbers for their cars. There was a brief meeting to give contestants a chance to ask questions. Harry Fosdick of New York asked a number of things in order to bring out clearly the interpretation of some of the rules, and he pointed out where mistakes had been made in other such runs. This was done over at 8 and the men immediately disappeared like dew before a morning sun.

About 9 there was a general chug chug of motors, blowing of horns and exchanging of greetings as the cars and competitors returned to prepare for the start. Gradually the crowd increased, the cars moved slowly down the streets until about 10:30 when they were scattered about looking over the machines. The drivers attracted much attention, too, for they were bundled up with clothes in a way that gave an impression they were going on a tour to the Arctic.

As it neared 10 the cars were lined up in the order of starting, with Henry Knights a few feet from the corner of Boylston street. He had the honor of being the first contestant to be given the word. He was driving his own machine, a 1906 Buick, that has been driven already 30,000 miles. When the word was given he drove through the lane of humanity that extended for many yards around the corner and as his lights were trained on the faces of the people, it gave them a ghastly glare as they stared at the machine.

A car that aroused much curiosity was driven by Mrs. Mabel Stearns of Manchester, N. H. She was well wrapped up and yet she seemed a frail little woman to start on such a hard run. She stated that she expected to drive the car from start to finish without resting. When the word was given there was a woman really competing, and she smiled as she pushed over the lever and got under way.

Arthur Knights had the job of strewing the coals, and he left on his task before 9 in a Buick. He has been over the route and knows it well, so there will be no error if the cars follow his trail. The first stage of the run took the machines to Rochester, N. H., a distance of 90 miles. They went along the shore and the running time to that place is about 10 hours. That meant 3 a. m. for the first stop. There they replenished with gasoline, etc., and Chester I. Campbell, manager of the auto shows here, will check them in and out.

ARTHUR HOSFORD WILL NOT TALK To Wed Maude Atherton of Boston

Among the names registered on the book of marriage intentions at the city hall yesterday appeared that of Arthur H. Hosford, former owner of the Opera House and well known real estate man. Mr. Hosford will wed a Boston woman. The intention as registered reads as follows:

Arthur H. Hosford, (divorced), 46, real estate, Central street, and Maude A. Atherton (divorced), 36, at home, 452 Beacon street, Boston.

The following intention was also registered yesterday and it goes to show that marriage is not a failure: Thomas Watersworth, (widowed), 57, gardener, 15 Hurst street, and Ada Mansfield (widowed), 23, operative, 45 Dunst street.

GERMAN REPLY To the Franco-Spanish Note

PARIS, Sept. 21.—The text of the German reply to the Franco-Spanish note on Morocco, a resume of which was telegraphed from Berlin today by Ambassador Cambon, was received in the French capital today. The government is surprised at the conciliatory tone of the German communication. The cabinet today decided to meet the minor reservations made by Germany in the same conciliatory spirit in which the German answer is couched.

THE CONVENTION DATE FIXED BY REPUBLICAN COMMITTEE IN 19TH DIST.

The republican 19th Middlesex representative committee held a meeting at 243 Central street yesterday afternoon and fixed a date for the convention. It was decided to hold the convention at republican headquarters in this city on Saturday, October 3, at 7:30 in the evening.

William H. Downes of ward 9 chairman of the committee, presided. The members were, Joseph Brown of North Billerica, secretary of the committee; F. A. D. Singh of Billerica Centre; Howard W. Foster of Tewksbury; and John C. Phil of ward 9, Lowell.

PLEADED GUILTY Englishman Sentenced for Larceny

BOSTON, Sept. 24.—Upon his plea of guilty to two counts of larceny, Oliver Deavang, an Englishman, who is said to be wanted in many cities for alleged swindling operations, was sentenced today to serve three months in the house of correction. From a search of the prisoner's clothing and personal effects the police learned for the first time that he is wanted for swindling in New York, Philadelphia, Washington, Kansas, Iowa and Rhode Island. Deavang, it is alleged, solicited orders for high priced medical books and insisted of returning the subscriptions to the publishers, diverted them to his own use.

IND. LEAGUERS Promised Surprise by Hearst Tonight

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—That surprises would be sprung tonight at the state convention of the Independence party in this city when W. R. Hearst is expected to deliver the keynote speech of the campaign, from that party's point of view, was generally believed by the leaders who discussed the matter today. It is understood that in his address Mr. Hearst will present another installment of letters dealing with the Haskell-Mommet controversy.

While it was said the convention tonight would be an open one, and that no cut-and-dried state has been arranged in nomination a quiet buzz has made headway for C. J. Shearn for governor. Mr. Hearst has also talked about in connection with the head of the ticket but it was learned from a supposedly official source that he would not accept the nomination even if tendered to him.

The only two other names so far mentioned for gubernatorial honors are those of Reuben B. Lyon of Bath, N. Y., and Henry A. Powell of Brooklyn, the latter giving out a statement to the effect that he would decline any place on the ticket.

It was rumored today that Mr. Hearst will abandon his speaking campaign for the national ticket and concentrate his efforts in this state. Last year the Independence candidate for the court of appeals polled about 10,000 votes and the party leaders assert that they are as strong as ever, and with a man like Shearn at the head of the ticket will cut heavily into the labor vote.

N. H. W. C. T. U. Holding Its Annual Convention at Nashua

NASHUA, N. H., Sept. 21.—Interest in today's session of the New Hampshire W. C. T. U. convention centered upon reports of the various committees which will be made late this afternoon and in the choice of officers.

Speakers at today's session included Mrs. H. G. Marston, on "Sabbath Observance," Mrs. Ethel M. Dinsmore of Lancaster who told of the recent contest work in the state, and Mrs. A. W. Wark, who told of the work for purity in literature.

BUILDING NOTES

Mr. H. M. Parker is having erected in the rear of his barn in Pine street nearly opposite the Highland granary school a silo for ensilage. It is to be 15 feet in diameter and 22 feet in height.

Contractor Patrick Cogger has a large corps of workmen and teams busily employed in excavating work prior to laying the basement foundation of the new church at the corner of Liberty and Hastings streets.

DAIGLE APPEALED He Was Charged With Assault- ing a Constable

Ernest Daigle, in whose shop in Hall street the body of Joseph Galloux was found, who it is alleged was murdered by Napoleon Rivet, was arraigned in police court this morning on a complaint charging him with assault and battery on Charles F. Bradley, a constable, on the 11th of the present month.

Daigle entered a plea of not guilty but the testimony offered by the defense was of such a nature that Judge Bradley practically had a Chinese puzzle to solve.

The court, however, ironed the matter out and found that the defendant was guilty and imposed a fine of $20, from which the latter appealed. Joseph O'Connor appeared for the complainant and A. O. Hamed for the defendant.

An appeal will follow the case heard today.

According to the testimony offered, Welch Bros., the plumbers in Middle street, had some business transactions with Mr. Daigle and the latter was indebted to Welch Bros. Despite the fact that bills had been sent to Daigle and civil suits had been threatened the latter failed to pay and the matter was turned over to lawyer O'Connor who gave Constable Bradley a writ of attachment to serve on Mr. Daigle.

A week ago Friday Constable Bradley went to Mr. Daigle's premises in the Cumberland road and attempted to attach a horse, but he met with a very strenuous objection and instead of getting the horse at that time, he says he was "fired" bodily through the barndoor and his feelings were injured.

In court this morning Constable Bradley explained that he had been given a writ of attachment to serve on Ernest Daigle and after calling at Mr. Daigle's house in the Cumberland road was treated in a rather rough manner.

THE COWLEY HEARING Will be Resumed at City Hall Next Monday

The Cowley case which was assigned for tomorrow has been postponed to Monday and will be held at city hall. The hearing will open at 10 o'clock in the forenoon.

Grade Crossing Hearing
Another grade crossing hearing is scheduled for 2 o'clock Friday afternoon, October 2, at the state house, room 245. It is thought that the hearing held a few days ago would be the last of the grade crossing hearings and it was, so far as the putting on of witnesses was concerned. The hearing to be held Oct. 2, will be a hearing on the question of apportionment of expense. In Lincoln and Plain streets the Boston & Maine railroad has a track that it does not use very much, a spur track, while the N. Y. & N. H. has main tracks. At School and Walker streets the Boston & Maine and the Nashua & Lowell have tracks. The question of the bridge across the canal in School street and while this is a question that the commission will not have the right to pass upon the Locks & Canals will be given to understand that it is generally believed that because of the nature of their charter that they are supposed to pay for whatever expense that may be occasioned because of the presence of the canal, which means that the Locks & Canals will be expected to pay for the raising and rebuilding of the bridge. It is expected that work on the crossings will be begun by the railroad in the early spring.

For Evening Teachers
The examinations for candidates for positions as teachers at the evening schools will be held Saturday morning at 8:30 o'clock in the high school building.

No More Typhoid

Up to the noon hour today no new cases of typhoid fever had been reported at the office of the board of health. It is not alone in Lowell that typhoid fever is prevalent and it is believed that the great drought has been something to do with it, that the low water in places may affect the situation. Then there is the opportunity always open to the operatives in the mills to drink canal water. Of course strict orders have been issued by the board of health to the mill people and others to furnish their operative with city water and the board of health reports that in all the mills and factories there is city water, yet there is always the opportunity for the operative to drink canal water. It is careless and irresponsible enough to do so. In the city of Manchester, N. H., in August there were 43 cases of typhoid fever and more than 20 cases in the same month in Troy, N. Y.

Mayor Approves Orders
Mayor Furthman today approved the resolution for the lowering of the sewer in Merrimack street from John street to Bridge street. The mayor said that Lowell has made the mistake in the past of not building her sewers deep enough and says that all sewers should be built low with an eye to the future. The mayor also approved the $1250 order for school boilers and the $1000 order for moth extermination. Relative to the moth question the mayor said he feared that the work done by the park commission had not been fully appreciated. He said the best way to appreciate it was to compare the appearance of the trees in the city with those in the suburbs.

Contracts Were Awarded
A contract for 150 cords of dirt oak

Ernest J. Daigle, a son of the defendant, testified that he was in the barn when the officer arrived and that the first words Mr. Bradley said were, "I want that mare." Witness refused to turn the horse over to the constable claiming that his brother was the owner of the animal.

Mr. Daigle, the defendant, was the next witness. In the first place he testified that he was the owner of the animal in question, but that his son had purchased it, but had not paid for it, therefore he considered that he was the owner. A few minutes afterwards he was asked if his son had purchased the horse and he said it to him, and that he was not the owner of the beast.

Still later Mr. Daigle testified that one of his sons purchased the horse and owned it, and then again witness retracted this statement and said that he was the owner, but had leased the horse to his son.

On cross-examination Mr. Daigle acknowledged that he owed a bill to the Welch Bros., but said that he intended to pay it. He also acknowledged that he was the person who paid a fine of $10 for assault and battery on one Simon Gauthier.

Oscar Daigle, another son of the defendant, testified along the same lines as did his brother.

During the course of the testimony by the defense it was stated that Constable Bradley was in an intoxicated condition and was staggering about the yard. Lawyer James E. O'Donnell was called in rebuttal and testified that he saw Mr. Bradley several times every day during the present month and never saw him in an intoxicated condition. He also referred to Mr. Bradley's condition on the day of the assault, and said that Mr. Bradley was found guilty, and a fine of $50 imposed. He appealed and was held under bond for the superior court.

BRYAN AT COLUMBUS

Great Crowds Applaud the Great Democratic Leader

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 24.—Twelve speeches to enormous crowds marked the second day of William J. Bryan, democratic candidate for president, into Ohio during the present campaign. His concluding speech was made here last night to an overflow crowd of 20,000 persons, while previously he had addressed the largest audience that ever had assembled in Memorial hall. Mr. Bryan's appearance on the platform created a scene of the wildest enthusiasm. In none of his remarks did Mr. Bryan touch on the bribery charge against Gov. Haskell.

During the day in this city the democratic candidate for president spoke to 4000 precinct committeemen. This was followed by addresses to the Commercial Travelers' league on the trusts and to the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and Firemen. His remarks last night were on the issues of the campaign generally, but his speech to representatives of the brotherhood was devoted exclusively to the labor question and more particularly the plank in the democratic platform demanding a trial by jury in cases in indictment.

Mr. Bryan spoke against the position of Mr. Taft, that the plank of the democratic platform relating to indirect contempt cases was an insidious attack on the judiciary. He mentioned the names of Senators Allison of Iowa, Hale of Maine, Morrill of Vermont, Cullom of Illinois, Sherman of Ohio, Hawley of Connecticut, and others as having favored the measure in the senate and he again demanded that Mr. Taft apologize to these big republicans for slandering them as he slandered them in this matter.

"We endorse a bill that passed the U. S. senate," continued Mr. Bryan, "by a vote so unanimous that they did not have a roll call. Only one man voted in the negative and that man was Senator Platt of Connecticut. While they had no roll call on the final passage of the bill there was a roll call soon afterward and on the same bill, and you will find the names of the men who were present recorded: John Sherman, William B. Allison, Gen. Hawley, Senator Hale, Senator Morrill and Senator Cullom."

"Now, Mr. Taft says this is the most insidious attack ever made on the judiciary of the United States, and yet not one of these great republicans, who were in the hall at the time, raised his voice against this bill or voted 'no' on it or demanded a roll call."

DEFENDS GOV. HASKELL

John W. Kern Addresses Two Large Audiences at Baltimore

BALTIMORE, Md., Sept. 24.—Before two large audiences in widely separated sections of the city last night, John W. Kern, the democratic nominee for the vice-presidency, took up the cudgels in defense of Gov. Haskell of Oklahoma and roundly scored President Roosevelt for his letter on the subject. He also replied to statements made by Atty.-Gen. Bonaparte in an interview called forth by charges made by W. J. Bryan that the so-called steel trust was permitted to exist in defiance of law.

Referring to the charges against Gov. Haskell, Mr. Kern said in part: "When did Mr. Roosevelt become so sensitive as to the previous or even the present business connections of the officers of the several political organizations? Did he object to the appointment of Fred W. Upham, a member of the Illinois board of review, which passes upon the amount of taxes the corporations and large estates in that state shall pay? Was his conscience aroused when he learned a few days ago that on Mr. Upham's motion the assessment of the Chicago street railway had been reduced about $10,000,000 from the amount fixed by the assessors?"

"Did he object to the appointment of Chas. E. Brooks, vice-president of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad company, a corporation now a defendant in a suit by the government; or at the appointment of Mr. Du Pont, a controlling figure in the powder trust, against which the government is now proceeding cautiously; or at the appointment of Frank O. Lowden of Illinois, connected as he is with that widely known and felt monopoly, the Pullman Palace Car company?"

"If the appointment of Gov. Haskell of a great state and made their governor, so offends the president, what diatribes may we expect from him when he familiarizes himself with the personnel of the executive committee of his own party?"

Referring to Atty.-Gen. Bonaparte's pronouncements about the steel trust, Mr. Kern observed: "While the distinguished Mr. Bonaparte may decline information at the hands of Mr. Bryan because of the latter's candidacy, can he afford to ignore the information volunteered by Richard Olney, who, without the aid of government experts, has been able to discover that the steel trust really exists?"

STILL AN AMATEUR

John J. Hayes Will Not Turn Professional

BOSTON, Sept. 24.—John J. Hayes, the winner of the Marathon race at London, last evening made the following statement:

"Having received a number of letters from professional runners, the last of which reached me today from Arthur Duffey, the ex-champion 100-yard dash runner, who is now representing Shrubbs, the 15-mile runner, I think it time to declare myself regarding my standing as far as running is concerned."

"I have always been an amateur and will remain such. I absolutely refuse to consider any challenge from any person known as a professional, because of my respect for those who have given me my present standing in the amateur ranks and their interest in me, which assisted me in winning the Marathon race at London."

"I always did and always will believe that athletes can be best served by remaining in the amateur class. I feel it my duty at this time to encourage American youth to respect honest sport, and I wish to make it plain to those who persist in issuing challenges that I will take no further notice of them."

DISHONORABLY DISCHARGED.

Priv. Howard Dismissed From the Army

NEW BEDFORD, Sept. 23.—In his cell this afternoon Private William C. Howard of Fort Rodman was served with papers dishonorably discharging him from the army.

In the morning Howard was arraigned in court charged with the murder of his wife. He was in civilian's dress and appeared nervous.

He at first pleaded guilty and then changed it to not guilty. His hearing was set for October 3. The police discovered, they claim, additional evidence today in support of their theory that Howard threw the woman from Padanaram bridge and returned to fort Rodman in a rowboat. Two fishermen in the vicinity heard a splash in the water at about midnight and commented upon it, one suggesting it might be the dropping of a lobster pot into the water. Soon after they saw a man rowing away from the bridge.

The police have searched Howard's

THE NEW CHURCH TEXTILE NOTES

Will Be a Modern Church Edifice

The following is a general description of the new Branch Street church, designed by Stickney, Austin & Bourke, architects, Boston and Lowell, Mass.

The new church is to be built at the corner of Liberty and Hastings streets. There will be three entrances, the main one at the corner of Liberty and Hastings streets, one on Liberty street, and one front pastor's room on Hastings street.

A novel feature of the plan is that the main Sunday school is on the front, being 37x38 feet with a curved front on Liberty street. This opens into the main church, which is 58x70 feet, from folding partition to face of platform, a distance of 70 feet, so that one large auditorium may be obtained.

The space occupied by pulpit platform, singers' gallery, organ, pastor's room, baptistry, dressing rooms, etc., is 24x38 feet. The organist will be seated towards the rear of the church.

Opening out of the main Sunday school will be four private class rooms, and a primary department 22x24 feet, also a library.

The main entrance will be under a square tower about 15x15 feet square, from this leads a staircase to a room over. There will be a handsome parlor for ladies over the main Sunday school. The basement under Sunday school portion will be finished later as a supper room, kitchen, etc.

The floor will slant towards the platform with curved pews. The inside finish will be of brown ash. The ceiling of church at the highest point will be about 32 feet high, and will be curved, part of the trusses showing in same, thus making a very handsome interior.

The outside walls of building will be of brick with stone and copper trimmings. The square tower and the church have been designed to have the old English effect, being rather low than high, and the church when finished will be picturesque and effective.

THE VIM WON

IN THE MOTOR BOAT CARNIVAL RACE

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—In the motor boat carnival yesterday George H. Baker's thirty-one horse power speed motor boat Vim won the long distance championship race from New York to Poughkeepsie and return, defeating H. R. Sutherland's Elmo by 10.23 seconds. The course is 11 statute miles, and the covered the distance in 54.24, averaging 23.58 miles an hour. The winner in the cruising class was J. H. Howley's Alabama. The course for this class was sixty statute miles, and the Alabama covered the distance in 1:55.14.

Interesting Items From Mill Centres

FALL RIVER, Sept. 21.—The tax lists, which have been committed to the city collector, shows M. C. D. Borden pays as his proportionate share the total sum of $128,151.63 as an annual tax on the Fall River iron works mills and the American Printing company. The tax on the Fall River iron works mills alone amounts to $97,962.24. The tax rate in this city is $19.20 a $1000. The Algonquin Printing company pays $7695.20. ### YARN SPINNERS HOPEFUL

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Sept. 21.—The effect of the meeting of the Southern Yarn Spinners' association, held in this city recently, has been to put a better appearance on the mill business generally. A careful inventory was taken of the stocks on hand at the different mills, and the amount of curtailment that had been carried out. The result of both of these calculations was exceedingly favorable to the mill. Most all of the spinners reported that they had had large inquiries within the past few days, and some stated that they had been offered orders extending over eight months, and that if they were willing to sell at present prices they could sell their entire output for that period.

MILL TO SELL AT RETAIL

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., Sept. 24.—The Ballard Silk company, a new local enterprise, is arranging to sell the entire output of its factory direct to the people, doing a mail order business, and also retailing at the mill and office at 33 Milford street. This company will make a specialty of black, blue, black, changeable and cardinal black changeables at the price of $1 per yard. Silks of the same quality retail at from $1.50 to $2 a yard in the majority of stores, but the firm is in a position to make the figure named by cutting out all middlemen's profits. A full stock of the different shades of silk is now on exhibition at the Ballard company's office and mill.

Lowell Mill Elects Officers

HUNTSVILLE, Ala., Sept. 24.—At the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Lowe Cotton Manufacturing Co. held in this city, directors elected were as follows: Arthur H. Lowe, Lawrence Cooper, J. H. Poor, Horace F. Poor, Charles L. Poor, William C. Thomas and George P. Grant. The shareholders ratified and confirmed all the acts of the management during the past year. The president in his report stated that although the past year had been a hard one the affairs of the mill have been so managed as to enable the payment of the usual dividend, besides make such improvements in the plant as to make the condition better now than it was at the beginning of the year.

TRAIN LEFT TRACK

Two Persons Were Killed and Fifty Were Injured

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 24.—A telephone dispatch to the Post-Dispatch from Carthage, Mo., says:

Two persons were killed and more than fifty injured in the wreck of the east-bound Frisco passenger train on the Spring river a mile north of this city (Carthage) today. The train was running at high speed when in rounding a sharp curve the engine left the track, all the cars following it.

The engine turned over twice in the steep descent of fifty feet and plunged into the river. The engineer and fireman were drowned.

BROKERS EXPELLED

Dismissed From the New York Stock Exchange

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—Acting on charges that A. O. Brown & Co. attempted to demoralize the stock market and created a panic in the minds of investors during the tremendous trading of August 22, the board of governors of the stock exchange today expelled A. O. Brown and Louis G. Young, members of that firm from membership of the exchange. The special committee appointed by the exchange to investigate the conduct of A. O. Brown & Co. reported to the exchange that the firm had been found guilty of "proceedings inconsistent with the just and equitable principles of trade."

The board of governors gave Mr. Brown and Mr. Young hearings yesterday afternoon and afterward voted that the charges were sustained.

WOOL SORTERS

150 Out on Strike in Lawrence

LAWRENCE, Sept. 24.—About 150 wool sorters went out on a strike at the Wood mill today because of alleged dissatisfaction with shop conditions. A meeting of the strikers is to be held Monday to decide on what course to take.

Lowell Men Out

The wool sorters in the Wood mills of Lawrence, many of whom were Lowell men, went out on strike this morning and this afternoon they are holding a mass meeting on the common in the down river city.

The trouble is alleged to be due to the employment of Italian help and the strikers, it is alleged, did not consult either the central labor or the textile union. They simply laid down their tools and walked out to a man.

One of them, a Lowell man, with whom a representative of the Sun talked this afternoon said that having spent three years in learning the trade the wool sorters could not stand for green help at reduced price.

The mill people on the other hand claim that the union cut down the number of apprentices to such an extent that the mill management was obliged to do something to protect the company's interests. The strikers at their meeting this afternoon will decide as to what course they will pursue.

U. S. Lightships on a Long Voyage

CAPT. ALBERT T. MERTZ

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—The voyage of Captain Albert T. Mertz with a flotilla of three lightships and three lightship tenders from New York to San Francisco is one of the most interesting exploits undertaken in naval circles since the sailing of the battleship fleet last December. The fleet consists of the Manzanita, the Kukui and the Sequoia, lightship tenders, and the Swiftsure No. 93, the Relief No. 92 and the Columbia river No. 88, all steam lightships. The tenders are 190 feet over all, with a beam of 30 feet and a total displacement of only 900 tons. The lightships are even smaller, 130 feet over all, and have a displacement of 660 tons. Their journey will be one of 14,000 miles through the perilous strait of Magellan and around and up to the upper part of the Pacific coast. According to Captain Mertz, the trip will last about 115 days, counting 170 miles a day while running and making allowances for stops and bad weather. Of the three tenders, the Manzanita is the flagship and will lead the way until San Francisco is reached and then will go on duty in the Portland district.

The interment was in charge of C. H. Molloy & Sons.

DECLARED A TIE

Pulliam's Decision on New York-Chicago Game

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—President Pulliam, of the National league, today declared yesterday's New York-Chicago game, which ended in a riot to be a tie game.

President Pulliam gave out the following statement:

"In the matter of the New York-Chicago game of Sept. 23 at New York I have received a written report from the umpires in charge of the game, Messrs. O'Day and Emslie. They report that the game resulted in a tie score, 1 to 1, and that it was impossible to continue the game after the ninth inning without entering at this time into the merits of the controversy that has arisen over this game or passing upon the legality of any decision, the game will be recorded as reported, namely, a tie."

The unfortunate ending of yesterday's game between New York and Chicago in the race for the National league pennant appears to have served only to intensify interest in the struggle which has been at fever heat for weeks.

Today's game will be the last of the year in the New York-Chicago series and arrangements had been made to care for an enormous crowd at the polo grounds.

100 Policemen

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—The race for the National league pennant, which for weeks has held enthusiasm at the highest point, has not yet finished. The game of yesterday between Chicago and New York, which had it gone to New York, would have given that team a lead which probably could not have been overcome, today was declared to be a tie. This was the decision of President Pulliam of the National league after he had received the reports of the umpires who officiated at yesterday's game, which ended in a riot when twenty thousand persons swarmed on the field after they believed that New York had won in the ninth.

As a result of the decision the relative standing is now:

Team	Won	Lost	P.C.
New York	87	59	.595
Chicago	80	53	.602

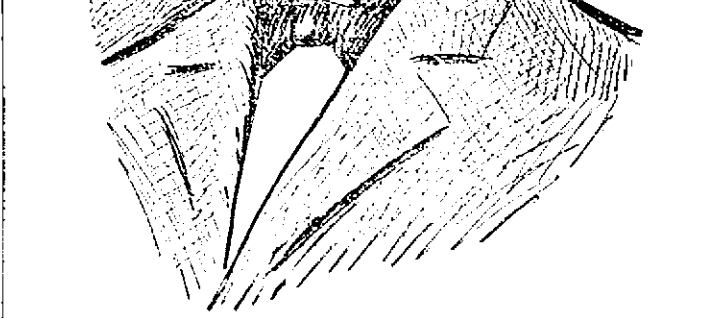

It is quite possible that President Pulliam's decision may not be accepted as final. Either team may protest against such a decision any time within five days and ask that the case be taken to the board of directors of the league.

President Pulliam announced that the tie game of yesterday would not be played off today. It is understood that under the rules the game cannot be played off today.

Police Commissioner Bingham today ordered an inspector and 100 policemen on duty at the grounds to prevent a repetition of the disorder of yesterday.

Following out a plan decided upon by Captain Chance after President Pulliam's decision had been announced, the Chicago team appeared on the diamond at 5 o'clock ready to play the first game of a double header.

Before going on the field Chance said his men were ready to play off yesterday's game.

HON. JOHN B. FORAKER, REPUBLICAN SENATOR IN OHIO, WHOSE ALLEGED CONNECTION WITH STANDARD OIL WHILE IN WASHINGTON, IS NOW THE SUBJECT OF A GREAT POLITICAL SCANDAL.

ARTHUR I. VORYS

Received Taft's Letter Protesting Against Foraker

Mr. Taft Made Known His Identity Last Evening With Reluctance While Pres. Roosevelt a Day Previous Refused to Disclose It

CHICAGO, Sept. 24.—The identity of the man to whom was addressed Judge Taft's letter protesting against the endorsement of himself and Senator Foraker in the same resolution given out by President Roosevelt Monday evening was disclosed last night. Judge Taft said that he had written the letter to Arthur I. Vorys, chairman of the republican state committee of Ohio. President Roosevelt refused to make the name public, Tuesday, in Cincinnati, Mr. Taft refused either to discuss the letter or to give the name of the man to whom he wrote. At his rooms in the Auditorium Annex last night just before he went to Orchestra hall Sec'y Taft was asked to give the name. He made it plain that he would prefer not to discuss the letter.

"If President Roosevelt did not want to give out the name I don't see why I should." Then he added:

"Arthur I. Vorys is the man."

WORKING BOTH SEASONS

CHICAGO, Sept. 24.—Wearing a hat and an overcoat, Wm. H. Taft left Chicago last night on the Chicago & Northwestern railroad for the scenes of the present campaign expedition into the north and central states.

Mr. Taft arrived at Beloit, Wis., where he addressed students of Beloit college and citizens of the town. Five minute speeches are to be made at Janesville, and at Evansville, Wis., during the forenoon on the way to Madison, where the presidential candidate is due to arrive at 11 o'clock. From Madison, Mr. Taft's train will head for Milwaukee.

LIKED HIS SPEECH

BELOIT, Wis., Sept. 24.—After a refreshing sleep in a cornfield where the Taft special stopped for several hours last night, Mr. Taft was out on the rear platform of his car at 7:30 o'clock this morning responding to the demands of Caledonia, Ill., for a speech. In a few words of good cheer spoken by the candidate it was demonstrated that Dr. J. J. Richardson, the Washington throat specialist, would have work to do. Otherwise than hoarseness Mr. Taft declared himself to be in fine fettle.

"I never enjoyed making a speech more than I did last night," he remarked. "I said exactly what I thought."

day's tie game and also the game scheduled. If the New York team did not appear to play off the tie game, he said, he would claim yesterday's tie contest as a forfeited game, 2 to 0.

There were no umpires on the field when the Chicago team appeared and only a few members of the New York team, who were at practice, were to be seen.

The players on the Chicago team were assigned to their places on the field and, although no umpires were present, made all preparations to play. When the New York team did not appear, Captain Chance directed his pitcher to "play ball," and one after another five balls were sent over the plate. The tie game of yesterday was formally claimed by forfeit by a score of 2 to 0.

NATIONAL LEAGUES RESERVED

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—Harry C. Pulliam, president of the National league, today announced that the following players have been reserved by the Boston National club for the season of 1909:

Kelly, Ball, Bates, Beaumont, Beck of San Francisco; Becker, Bowerman, Boutles, Brown, Carrish, Chappelle, Coles of Augusta; Cullen, Donahue, Dornier, Easick of Kansas City; Ferguson, Flaherty, George of Boston; Graham, Hannifan, Henderson, Hohnherst of Augusta, Joy, Luddanan, Mattern, McCarthy, McGann, Moran, Pfeiffer, Pierce of Lansing; Ritchie, Simon of Cedar Rapids; Smith, Stem, Sweeney, Thomas, Tucky, Young.

President Pulliam announced that the tie game of yesterday would not be played off today. It is understood that under the rules the game cannot be played off today.

Police Commissioner Bingham today ordered an inspector and 100 policemen on duty at the grounds to prevent a repetition of the disorder of yesterday.

Following out a plan decided upon by Captain Chance after President Pulliam's decision had been announced, the Chicago team appeared on the diamond at 5 o'clock ready to play the first game of a double header.

Before going on the field Chance said his men were ready to play off yesterday's game.

ST. PETERSBURG, Sept. 24.—The cholera statistics made public today show an encouraging decrease in new cases. The deaths, however, were more numerous than yesterday. During the twenty-four hours ended at noon today there were admitted into the municipal hospitals 363 cases and there occurred 172 deaths. Among the cases today are fifteen more students from the Pavlovsky military academy.

The master at arms of the aristocratic college of Pnms died at the hospital of the malady today and as a result all the pupils have been withdrawn. The pupils from this institution are drawn exclusively from the highest court families and this incident has increased the apprehension in court circles.

ELKINS CRITICIZED

Lincoln Republicans Show Bitter Feeling

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Sept. 24.—It became known last night that there is much bitter feeling among the Lincoln republicans, particularly over the manner in which the regular republican committee named Glasscock. Resolutions were adopted by the Lincoln state committee severely criticizing the alleged activity in the matter and announcing the committee's intention to publish today an address to the Lincoln republicans of West Virginia. It is stated this address will not include any formal or direct endorsement of Mr. Glasscock.

STOLE NOTES

BOSTON BOY THEN THREW AWAY THE PAPERS

BOSTON, Sept. 24.—A mysterious theft of notes of a face value of $4,579 from the safe of W. R. Chester, a lumber dealer, on Aug. 20, was cleared up yesterday, when the police arrested Alfred J. McGuinness, aged 18.

The lad confessed that he took the notes and divided them with another boy. After finding that the notes were worthless as far as they were concerned, they threw away the whole lot.

McGuinness says that he happened to look through the door of Mr. Chester's office and saw a large racketbook lying in the safe. When the stenographer's back was turned he sneaked in and got away with the wallet without being seen.

NO ACTION YET

On Question of Haskell's Resignation

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—No action will be taken by the democratic national committee with reference to the charges that have been made against Gov. Chas. N. Haskell, pending an investigation which is now being made by Mr. Bryan of the matter. It is definitely known that several national committeemen are urging that Mr. Haskell be removed.

National Chairman Mack said today that he had received no communication from Mr. Bryan and Gov. Haskell on the subject.

Mr. Mack said:

"I don't know what is going to be done and I can't say whether Gov. Haskell shall resign or not."

National committeemen expressed the belief today that the whole matter would be settled by Mr. Bryan and National Chairman Mack after the candidate had satisfied himself of all the facts in the case. Mr. Mack said he knew nothing of the report from Washington that Mr. Haskell had tendered his resignation and that he had issued no order calling a meeting of the national executive committee.

Chairman Connors made public today figures of his preliminary canvass of the state which he said show that Bryan would carry the state by 10,000 plurality.

The members and friends of the alumni have in the past enjoyed many affairs run under the auspices of the well known society, but at the meeting tonight a new idea will be put on which shall surely please all present. To all past graduates the alumni extends an invitation to come to Merrimack hall this evening. The meeting will be called to order at 8 o'clock sharp. ARMY NURSE

Mrs. Sarah Langstrom Died At Lynn

LYNN, Sept. 24.—The death of Mrs. Sarah Langstrom, widely known as an army nurse, especially in connection with her work during the Spanish-American war, was announced from the Lynn hospital today. Mrs. Langstrom was a graduate of the Lynn hospital. She was born in Philadelphia about 40 years ago. She had been prominent in the army nurses' movement. Of late years she had been in Alaska. The funeral will be held from the Lynn hospital tomorrow.

SMUGGLED ARMS

Sent Supposedly From America To Moscow

MOSCOW, Sept. 24.—The police of this city received an intimation last night that arms were being smuggled into the district for revolutionary purposes. For three days they have been going through the warehouses of the leading American importing firm in Moscow. They opened no less than six thousand cases containing typewriters and hardware but found no evidence to support their suspicions.

600 RECRUITS

Raised Here to Fight Against U. S. of Colombia

BOSTON, Sept. 24.—The Boston Post this morning prints the disclosure of an alleged filibustering expedition to start from this city on Oct. 1st, composed of 600 men, fully armed and equipped, for the overthrow of the United States of Colombia in South America.

Attention was first called to the proposed expedition by advertisements in local papers several months ago calling for recruits, graduates of the United States army and navy preferred, the advertisements being signed merely "W. A. B."

According to the Post, officers were opened in Boston, Worcester and Lynn, and 600 men were secured.

The recruiting was under the direction of W. A. Blanchard, mining engineer, with offices in New York.

Muscar carbines, United States cavalry sabres, 45-calibre revolvers, four machine guns and two hotchkiss guns, with other equipment, it is claimed, had already been purchased from Bliss & Co. and Francis I. Bannerman of 501 Broadway, New York city.

A British tramp steamer had been secured, it is claimed, to transport the troops and arms to South America. A fishing schooner has to take the men and arms out of Boston harbor to the three mile limit, where the tramp steamer would be met.

That ship was to proceed to the Caribbean and land the force at the mouth of the Magdalena river, from which point the forces would march upon Barranquilla, ten miles inland, and attack the government houses.

It is claimed that the expedition was hatched in Colombia late last year, and arose through the jealousy of former members of the cabinet of President Rafael Reyes.

FOR ANNUAL FAIR

Middlesex North Trustees Make Plans

Yesterday at the New American House the trustees of the Middlesex North Agricultural society got together and planned for the society's annual fair. President Arthur H. Chier presided.

Secretary Andrew Liddell read the minutes of the last meeting held in November, 1907. The treasurer, J. A. Weinbeck, read a very encouraging report, which showed the society not only free from debt, but with a large balance in the treasury.

In reply to one of the trustees Mr. Weinbeck said that he figured the society about $200 better off than at this time last year. There is now in the treasury almost $1500, not including a mortgage on the old fair grounds property of $3200. There is also the interest on this mortgage, which is payable semi-annually.

Arrangements are also being made for the fair, which will be held this year, as last, in conjunction with the Dracut grange. The feature of the dog show, which was held last year, will be omitted and the money thus saved applied to increased premiums.

The report of the treasurer was accepted as progress, and will be accepted at the next meeting, as it has not yet been audited. A report was read by the committee appointed to confer with the officials of Dracut grange in regard to the coming fair. The fair will be held September 30 and October 1. There has been planned a fire drill by the two Dracut companies, and this will probably be a drawing card owing to the great rivalry.

There will probably be only three grange exhibits at the fair, as Tyngsboro is busy with a fair, and others have not prepared anything. But there will be a large number of individual entries and a fine showing is expected. The fair will be conducted on the same condition as last year, that the society will bear only the expense of the premiums.

A committee was appointed to bring in a list of officers for the ensuing year to be acted upon at the annual meeting to be held October 2. This same committee will have the additional duty of revising the salary list. There are two paid officers of the society, clerk and treasurer.

A very interesting report was read by Mr. George Trull, who has charge of the institute work. Mr. Trull also read the following self-explanatory letter:

Mr. President and Gentlemen of the Board of Trustees of the Middlesex North Agricultural Society:

The past year we have held six institutes, two in Lowell, one in Westford, one in Dracut, one in North Reading, and one in Billerica, all well attended and some crowded—our smallest attendance 206, and our largest 900. We have had a variety of subjects: Rural Law, Poultry, Cattle, Rural Life, Gardening, Farming and Pork Raising—and a good entertainment for each afternoon meeting, such as debates, singing by the school children for prizes, singing by Reading Glee club, story telling by Normal school teachers, and prize speaking by the children, all of which were both pleasing and interesting.

I thank you, gentlemen of the board of trustees, for the handsome treat you gave me in the form of a trip to Washington to the national institute last October—my visit to the national capital being especially pleasing—and hope that what points I have been able to gather will prove beneficial to the work.

Respectfully submitted,
George W. Trull,
Committee on Institute.

When all business has been disposed with a dinner was served in the hotel dining-room, after which the meeting was adjourned until October 2.

LONG TIME WED

HEDGEWOOD BOY
Strong Favorite Defeated by Citation

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 21.—Hedgewood Boy, such a strong favorite for the free-for-all pace of yesterday afternoon's grand circuit card that he was barred in the first heat, was defeated by Citation, but the Illinois mare had to set a world's record to do it. Her heats in 2:10 3-4 and 2:11 following one by Hedgewood Boy in 2:02 1-2, and the fastest ever paced here. Citation was only nosed out in the first heat and won the second by a scant head after a grueling mile, the last quarter being paced in 30 1-2 seconds.

Hedgewood Boy and his rival were about even choices for the third and decisive mile. McMahon trailed with Citation to the head of the stretch when he swung the mare out wide and raced Hedgewood Boy into the ground. The Harvester did the best 3-year-old trotting of the year when he won the Kentucky stock farm futurity in straight heats.

BOTH BEEN THERE BEFORE

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—Both Nat Goodwin, the noted comedian, and Maxine Elliott, his actress wife, whom he is suing for divorce at Reno, Nev., have been through the divorce courts before. Goodwin's first wife was Eliza Weatherly, who died in 1887. He then married Nella Baker Pease of Buffalo, who sued him for divorce in 1891. The suit resulted in a long litigation. Miss Elliott's first marital experience was with George A. McDer-mott, a lawyer and junior's marshal under Mayor Grace of New York, whom she divorced in 1897. She was married to Mr. Goodwin in 1898. She is one of the most beautiful women on the American stage. Her sister Gertrude is the wife of Forbes Robertson, the English actor.

DEBT REDUCED

Good News for First Trinitarian Church

The debt on the First Trinitarian Congregational church has been reduced within a year from $5000 to $2500.

This announcement was made by the pastor, Rev. George F. Kenngott, at the annual harvest supper of the church, held last night.

The auditorium and vestry were crowded with members of the congregation and the supper, given under the direction of the Ladies' Benevolent society, was a very pleasant affair and a great success.

The evening's entertainment opened with an organ recital in the auditorium from 8 until 9 o'clock, with Walter W. Coburn officiating at the organ.

Promptly at 7 o'clock the procession for the march to the dining rooms in the vestry formed and made its way to the lower floor, to the music of a spirited march played on the piano by Miss Elsie Gagin.

During the supper hour and the rest of the evening also, there were musical selections on a phonograph given for the occasion by a well known local firm.

Shortly after 8 o'clock Rev. George F. Kenngott, pastor of the church, called the gathering to order and then spoke for a few moments on the prospects for the year. He then introduced the various speakers of the evening, who were as follows:

Deacon O. A. Brigham, who spoke on the church; Albert A. Ludwig, superintendent of the Sunday school, who talked on that institution; Mrs. O. A. Brigham, who told of the work of the Benevolent society; Mrs. H. H. Sumner, who spoke for the Maternal association; Dr. H. H. Sumner, the clerk of the church; James Stuart Murphy, Mrs. George P. Kenngott, who told what was being done in providing music for the church; and Rev. Sarah A. Dixon, the associate pastor.

One of the pleasant surprises of the evening were the facts presented by Rev. Kenngott in regard to the church debt. That debt, which a year ago amounted to $5000, has now been reduced to $2500, with every prospect of another reduction of $500 in the near future.

Happy Women

Plenty of Them in Lowell and Good Reason For It

Wouldn't any woman be happy. After years of backache suffering. Days of misery, nights of unrest. The distress of urinary troubles. She finds relief and cure? No reason why any Lowell reader should suffer in the face of evidence like this:

Mrs. Margaret Lynde, living at 25 Cross st., Lowell, Mass., says: "In return for the benefit I derived from Doan's Kidney Pills I gladly give them my endorsement. I suffered for some time from dull, nagging backaches, and at times could hardly get around to attend to my work. The sufferings from my kidneys were too frequent in action, and were a source of great annoyance. Doan's Kidney Pills, which I procured from Hildreth & Co's drug store soon relieved the backaches and corrected the kidney disorder. My daughter also tried this remedy, with benefit and thinks just as highly of it as I do."

REPLY TO BRYAN

Roosevelt Repeats the Charges of Haskell

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—President Roosevelt last night, following upon a prolonged conference with members of the cabinet at the White House, prepared and gave out his reply to W. J. Bryan, the democratic candidate, relative to the charges that Governor Haskell, treasurer of the democratic campaign committee, had represented Standard Oil interests both in Ohio and Oklahoma. Mr. Bryan had demanded proof of the charges, protesting that in the event of their substantiation Gov. Haskell would be eliminated from the campaign.

Dismissing the Ohio case, which involved an allegation of attempted bribery, with the explanation that he had made no direct charge against Gov. Haskell as regards that particular instance, President Roosevelt takes up the matter of the Prairie State Oil and Gas company and argues that Gov. Haskell's action in stopping legal proceedings begun by the attorney-general of Oklahoma, demonstrates conclusively that he was controlled by the great corporation to which the Oklahoma company was subsidiary.

After contrasting Mr. Bryan's defense of Governor Haskell as against Judge Taft's reputation of Foraker in connection with W. R. Hearst's charges against the Ohio senator, the president proceeds to declare that Gov. Haskell's "utter unfitness for association with any man anxious to appeal to the American people on a moral issue" has been abundantly shown by other acts of his as governor of Oklahoma. The president condemns Gov. Haskell's conduct in connection with various matters as disgraceful and scandalous, and calls such attention to which he describes as "prostituting" to base purposes the state university.

This fresh charge against the governor rests on an article in the Outlook from which the president quotes and which, he says, forms the conclusion of Gov. Haskell is unworthy of any position in public life.

The latter portion of Mr. Roosevelt's deliverance is devoted to criticism of Mr. Bryan's plan for regulating the trusts, which he characterizes as a measure that sounds more radical than any advocated by the republicans but which in practice would not work. Concluding, Mr. Roosevelt declares that "no law-defying corporation has anything to fear from Mr. Bryan."

save what it would suffer from the general paralysis of business which would follow democratic success."

The president spent almost the entire day in getting the letter in shape. An hour was given in the morning to making a rough draft of it, which was submitted to Secretary Garfield and Postmaster-General Myers, both of whom made suggestions as to portions of the communication. In the afternoon all the members of the cabinet, now in the city, Secretary Wilson, Straus, Wright, Metcalf and Garfield and Postmaster-General Myers met with the president in the cabinet room at the executive offices for a conference on the subject which lasted until after five o'clock. Two hours more were required to make minor changes before Secretary Loeb gave it to the press.

Deeming the reply too long to be sent by wire, the method of communication Mr. Bryan had employed in his challenge to the president, it was forwarded by mail to the democratic candidate at Lincoln, Neb.

ILL-FATED CHELSEA.

Some evil fate seems to follow the city of Chelsea. The epithet, "As dead as Chelsea," might well be applied to the unfortunate city, close to Boston, that has been almost completely wiped out by fire. It was supposed that the remainder of the city spared by the conflagration of last spring would escape any further danger of fire, but alas, another conflagration starts in some mysterious way and causes damage exceeding $500,000. Certainly the city of Chelsea has suffered a scourge such as few other cities in the country at any time, but yet it is hoped that ten years will see the city thoroughly restored and again started upon a career of prosperity.

THE NOMINATION OF FROTHINGHAM.

The nomination of Louis A. Frothingham for lieutenant governor is a surprise to the supporters of Mr. Cole in this vicinity as they were quite confident of victory. Mr. Frothingham if elected will train for governor, but if the democrats exercise good judgment in the selection of a candidate for governor this year and next he will be disappointed. It is time this custom of gubernatorial succession was abandoned. The democratic party should nominate a candidate strong enough to smash all the customs and calculations of republican lieutenant governors. There is no scarcity of men in the state whose nomination would effect this purpose. Richard Olney is one of them.

THE BOY THAT NOBODY WANTS.

There is a kind of a boy that nobody wants. He is the boy that is never ready to do a thing just at the time he is told to do it. He has an answer to make or some excuse to offer for delay. It is "wait a minute," "what for?" or "that's none of my work."

The boy who indulges this practice will never amount to anything because nobody will take sufficient interest in him to try to help him ahead.

The boy who wins favor with his employers is the one who obeys on the instant and doesn't ask why he is told to do a thing. All he wants is the order and he obeys. It is a pleasure to meet a boy of this kind because they are extremely rare. Wherever one is found he is prized by his employer and by those around him. He has due respect for his superiors, but if anybody else than those directly in authority over him asks him to do any particular thing, he does not stand upon ceremony, but shows that cheerful, obliging spirit so very highly appreciated for its rarity. It does not hurt him to do a favor or to do things that will help somebody else even though they are outside his regular work.

Another failing very general with boys is, that they cut out a line of work for themselves, and if they are forced to do anything outside of that program they do it under protest and with a lot of grumbling. That kind of a boy is likely also to remain at the foot of the ladder. He always thinks that he is being imposed upon if asked to do anything outside his humdrum routine. He likes to stay in a rut, and unless he is pushed out of it and made to work on both sides of it he will make no progress.

There is a class of boys also who have to be told over and over again the general routine of their work. They do not give sufficient attention to their duties to avoid overlooking some particular item or some particular thing that it is compulsory upon them to look after. Thus they neglect many small things which when taken together are of considerable importance, and these continued oversights reflect upon the sincerity or the honesty or the capability of the boys concerned.

A boy who disobeys in small things proves that he cannot be relied upon in matters of more importance.

One of the most difficult things that parents and teachers have to encounter is to secure strict obedience from boys. The employers under whom the boys go to work very often experience the same trouble and have to drop from their employ scores of boys who simply refuse to obey orders instantly and to do their work faithfully. The boy who has learned to obey on the instant and to obey without question, manner or protest, has on his side a great many of the elements that make for success. If he would command he must first learn to obey.

The military drills, the school drills or any other disciplinary practice that trains boys to obey on the instant is very valuable, as its influence will be apparent in the lives of the boys long after they have left school.

It is important that a boy should learn a trade, and important that he should be industrious, but if he has learned to obey those placed over him in authority, he will make progress in anything he undertakes, and he will always find people ready to help him onward and upward.

THE UPPER ROOM

In my house of life is an Upper Room. A small and garish place; And there I dreamed in the mist-gray gloom.

And I looked my soul in the face. (O Upper Room with your dreams where I Let my friends, unwept, go passing by!)Once Love tried the door, and a child's voice came—
I heard it through my prayers—
But the door was barred when they called my name.And the steps went down the stairs (And yesterday at the door I found
A toy and a rose trampled on the ground.)And my prayers were heard, for with toll my house
Has grown, though empty, great;
And from my Upper Room I see
Crowds gather around my gate.(From my Upper Room with its dreams where I Let the loveless years go passing by.)I have fought my fight. Hark, they bring the prize—
I have run; I have won the race!
But I sit and I dare not lift my eyes
To look my soul in the face.(For yesterday at the door I found
A toy and a rose trampled on the ground.
Mary Roberts Rinehart, in "Success Magazine.")

Circumstances, as you know, render unpleasant things necessary at times and if there is anything unpleasant in this world it is to have to sleep with somebody else. That was my misfortune a few nights ago and I claim it all as my misfortune because the other fellow, my friend John S., with whom I was obliged to bunk, said he didn't mind sleeping with me because he had slept with mules in the south and horses in the west.

John in the least was more plain by the fact that he was snoring in less than fifteen minutes after he struck the feathers. We retired about ten o'clock and the city bells had tolled the midnight hour with me still fighting for a wink. At about two o'clock

Rev. Daniel Would Meet Ha'Nish

"LITTLE MASTER" OF THE MAZDAZNAH CULT

Says Mazdaznanism is a Mixture of Christian Science, Dawisism and Divine Healing—Few Side Lights on Persia

Rev. Mr. Daniel, missionary from the Orient, spoke last night in the Western Street Baptist church and announced that he would remain in this country six months more for the sake of meeting Rev. Dr. Otoman Zar-Adusht Ha'Nish, the "little master of the Mazdaznan cult."

From what he had learned of Mazdaznanism he seemed to him to be a mixture of Christian Science, Dawisism, and divine healing.

Zar-Adusht, Mr. Daniel says, means, literally, Zoroaster. Where Ha'Nish got it, he is at a loss to know. In British India, there are about two millions of fire worshippers; but in Persia they are rapidly dying out.

He welcomed questions, and a few were asked and answered. He was asked whether the fire worshippers of Persia and India make their women high priestesses of the temple, and answered in the negative, "The Parsee women," he said, "are treated about the same as the Mohammedan women. They never go out without being veiled."

It was remarked by some one in the audience that Ha'Nish claimed that the sacred fire from the altar, in a temple in Persia, would be brought over to America and placed in the Mazdaznan temple in Chicago.

"Well," said Mr. Daniel, "even if it could be kept burning all the way over here, what would be the difference between that and any other fire? Show the Parsees in Persia this fire. In this house, and I am sure they would worship it."

"Ha'Nish sometimes signs himself 'Otoman, Prince of Adusht.' It was said there was some sense in that?"

"None whatever," Zar-Adusht means Zoroaster, and the guests of Zoroaster are not called princes. There are no princes in Persia, except in the royal family. The highest title in Persia—except in the royal family—can be bought for $20. It is sometimes called 'Hahn'."

"Perhaps," it was suggested, "that is where he got his name—Ha'Nish."

"Ah, but it is not spelled that way. It is 'Khan,' pronounced with the 'K' nearly silent."

"I will remain in this country six months more for the sake of meeting the Mazdaznan leader. My address will be 132 Riverside avenue, Yonkers, N. Y. If he thinks it is too expensive to come on here, I will gladly pay his fare from Chicago to Lowell and back, if he will only come and meet me."

DAN O'LEARY

TO MEET "JOHNNY" HAYES IN A NOVEL MATCH

CINCINNATI, September 24.—Dan O'Leary, the noted pedestrian, who surprised the world last year walking 1,000 miles in 1,000 hours, at Norwood, Ohio, is back again in Cincinnati to interest others in the walking habit.

A great walking match will be held in Madison Square Garden, New York, next March, in which O'Leary is interested. At least $10,000 in prize will be offered, and O'Leary, while he will not participate, is anxious to have an American win the event. He is traveling from city to city to get new people into the walking habit, and yesterday chaperoned a party of walkers from Cincinnati to Hamilton, Ohio, and return, a distance of about 32 miles.

O'Leary donated four prizes to those who finished the walk, a gold watch as first prize, a silver clock as a second, walking shoes as a third and a pedometer as a fourth prize. Next week O'Leary will start a party of his own.

O'Leary says that he is on to match him against Johnny Hayes, winner of the Marathon race, O'Leary to walk six miles while Hayes runs 10 miles. But O'Leary says the match is not consummated.

"Undoubtedly Hayes can run 11 miles in one hour, and I can walk in such a match," said O'Leary. "When I was about 26 years old I could walk seven miles an hour, but I am a little older now, just 55, so am not able to do better than six miles an hour."

THE JAP PREMIER

Stands Pledged to Financial Reforms

TOKIO, Tuesday, Aug. 25.—Marquis Katsura, who became premier and minister of finance in July of this year, stands pledged to the following scheme of financial reform for the empire, a draft of which recently was laid before the cabinet.

That in the budget for the present fiscal year a further postponement of projected government works will be effected to the extent of $10,000,000.

The administrative reforms will be effected and the ordinary expenditure will be curtailed as much as possible.

That no new works, with the exception of those already unavoidable, will be undertaken.

That the policy of carrying out public works by the issuing of bonds shall be abandoned.

$80,000 SUBSCRIBED*For the Irish Cause at the Convention in Boston*M. J. Ryan of Philadelphia Re-elected National President Amid Great Enthusiasm—Stirring Speeches by Messrs. Redmond and Devlin

BOSTON, Sept. 24.—Nearly $80,000 was subscribed and pledged yesterday in Faneuil hall during the closing sessions of the fourth biennial convention of the United Irish league of America, and it was subscribed with a heartiness and enthusiasm which must have pleased the three Irish envoys who sat on the platform—John E. Redmond, M. P.; Joseph Devlin, M. P., and John Fitzgibbon, chairman of the county council of Castleknock.

It was a great day for Ireland and for the Irish parliamentary cause, of which Mr. Redmond is the leader. Joseph Devlin one of his able lieutenants and John Fitzgibbon one of its staunchest supporters.

And it was a remarkable convention—remarkable for its enthusiasm, which began the preceding day when Archbishop O'Connell, with the Irish envoys and Mayor Hibbard, entered the hall together, and which never abated one jot, but rather grew in intensity, up to the last moment.

The convention was also remarkable for the spirit of unanimity and harmony which pervaded it at all times and for the strong determination that was apparent from the start in all the delegates to prove to John E. Redmond their absolute faith in his leadership.

Pres. Ryan Accepts Again

And when at the conclusion of that speech Pres. Michael J. Ryan called for subscriptions the secretaries had difficulty in keeping track of them. Philadelphia led off with $10,000, which was later raised to $15,000; New York pledged $20,000; Massachusetts, $10,000; Chicago, $10,000; Baltimore, $5,000; Brooklyn, $5,000; St. Louis, $5,000; Washington, $1,000; Iowa, $2,000; and so on down to individual subscriptions which ranged from $1000 to $5.

Pres. Ryan is certainly a wonder as a money getter, and his Philadelphia colleagues were proud of his calls. There were more individual subscriptions from the Quaker city than from all the other cities combined.

But great as was all of this demonstration over John E. Redmond and the subscriptions, it somehow paled before the storm of applause that broke out when it was announced by the nominating committee that Michael J. Ryan of Philadelphia had consented to accept the office of president for two more years. Pres. Ryan is a cool man on the platform, but when that storm of cheers broke out and lasted for some moments he stood transfixed with a gavel in his hand. All he could say was:

"You can't imagine how I feel." Pres. Ryan has sacrificed a great deal in a business way the past two years for the United Irish league. He has worked hard in the cause; he has traveled much, but in that time he has not cost the league a postage stamp. He has paid his own traveling expenses and hotel bills; his postage and telegraph bills—in fact everything has come out of his own pocket, and in addition to all this he has been the largest individual subscriber to the cause.

The delegates were also surprised, however, when they learned that the secretary had spent $70 in two years on his personal expenses traveling and speaking in behalf of the league. John O'Callaghan, the like President Ryan, clearly works for the love of the cause of Ireland and it is small wonder that he, too, got such a whirlwind reception as he did when his nomination to the office of secretary was announced.

The morning session opened at 11 o'clock, and after a few committee reports and brief speeches by James F. O'Connor of North Dakota and Rev. Frank J. O'Hare of Newry, Ire., Sec. O'Callaghan read his report, which was frequently and loudly applauded.

At the conclusion of the secretary's report, P. T. Barry of Chicago spoke on the loss which the league had sustained in the death of John F. Finerty of Chicago, first president of the league, and one of its earliest and most ardent champions.

Mr. Redmond's Remarks

Then Mr. Redmond was introduced and got a great ovation. He said in part:

"It is four years since I last stood in a national convention in America. You then made certain promises to Ireland, and I, on behalf of Ireland, made certain promises to you. I am here to acknowledge with profound gratitude that you have kept your word to Ireland. And I am here to claim and to show that the Irish party and my colleagues and I have both in the spirit and in the letter kept our word to you. (Applause.)

"You promised us your moral and material support. You have given it. You have sent us $80,000 in cash, and you have maintained the honor of this movement in the public mind of America, and in that way given us your moral support.

"We upon our side promised you that we would never permit the lowering of the flag of Ireland, and we promised in addition that we would in the immediate future with great unselfishness and with great energy endeavor to reform Ireland tending toward the betterment and the elevation of every class of our population.

"Mr. John O'Callaghan's lecture last night was an unanswerable argument to show that the Irish movement has done. He showed you representations of the wretched hovels which the laborers in the country parts of Ireland were living in. Since I last spoke at a national convention here we have obtained from the British treasury $22,000,000 for the purpose of sweeping these hovels away, and for the erection of 30,000 laborers' cottages, and there are actually completed or in course of erection now over 50,000 laborers' cottages which are replacing the hovels to which I have referred."

Mr. Redmond then told in detail all that has been accomplished in Ireland the past four years through the Irish parliamentary party, and concluded with a statement of what he and his colleagues hoped for the future. He said:

Home Rule to the Front

"Now, we want to be put in the position of contemplating this great work. The land question is not settled. Fresh legislation is necessary to give compulsory powers to be put in operation

HON. M. J. RYAN.
Re-elected National President of U. I. L.

against those landlords who refused to sell upon reasonable terms to their tenants. Fresh legislation is necessary in order to break up those great unoccupied prairies and turn them into economical holdings for the people.

"Fresh legislation is needed on the land question to alter its financial basis, so that it will work more rapidly and without any loss to the ratepayers of the country. The government is pledged publicly and privately to introduce immediately when we go back to London a bill to carry those recommendations into law.

"But I tell you quite frankly that I have not too much faith in this government any more than in other English governments. But if the government once gets it into its head that the Irish movement is on the downward path and that the Irish party is seriously divided, or that America has fallen away from the support of the national government, then they will find some excuse to postpone this necessary land legislation. If that happened, the result in Ireland would be deplorable.

"When last I spoke here a tory government was in power, pledged to defeat home rule. We succeeded in driving that government from office. The liberals came in with a majority so strong that unfortunately they were in a minority of the Irish party. The result was the national councils bill, which fortunately was rejected by the Irish people. And today the policy of devolution, as it is called, is dead. No government will ever again propose a national councils bill.

"The next measure will be a proposal on the lines of Mr. Gladstone's home rule. The liberals are pledged, and, in spite of the lukewarmness on this matter of Prime Minister Asquith, he also is pledged publicly and privately to make full home rule one of the living issues to be put before the electors at the next general election, which, I believe, will come in about 12 months. And I also believe that the majority of the people of Great Britain will record their votes in favor of home rule.

"But even if they don't, one thing is certain, and that is that the next government, whether liberal or tory, will have a small majority, and then the united vote of the 38 men of the Irish party will be an irresistible power."

At the conclusion of Mr. Redmond's speech Pres. Ryan called for subscriptions and nearly $30,000 was subscribed in a short time, after which came a recess.

After the recess the convention was called to order at 3:45 p. m. and chairman M. J. Ryan of the resolutions committee read the resolutions which had been prepared and in which the work of the Irish party in parliament is lauded. They declare that there should be no deviation from America to Mr. Redmond and his colleagues, and state the purpose to raise a fund of $100,000. The resolutions were unanimously carried.

Then came a call for more subscriptions, and nearly $10,000 more was subscribed, after which came the report of the committee on permanent organization of the officers elected for the ensuing year, as a tribute to which Pres. Ryan told of his resolve to accept the call to the presidency for two more years.

Officers Elected

Besides the officers previously mentioned the following were nominated and unanimously elected:

For vice presidents—William Temple Emmett of New York city; Michael E. Smith, St. Louis, Mo.; Charles F. Cook, Chicago, Ill.; Patrick Martin, Baltimore, Md.; John Fitzpatrick, New Or-

Joseph E. Devlin

Mr. Devlin was then introduced. He said in part:

"We have been told that we are not the legitimate successors of the Parnell movement and that Mr. Redmond is not the mantle bearer of Parnell. Well, my answer to that is this: Our constitution is the same, our objects are the same, our principles are the same, our methods are not dissimilar.

"What was the object when Parnell and Davitt first came here to America to appeal for your support? What were the three vital principles in their program and platform? They came here to plead for your support that Ireland might secure 'land, learning and liberty.' I hold in my hand a list of the objects for which Parnell and Davitt began this movement and it is only when one comes to read the purpose and program of that movement that we realize the wonderful progress that has been made during the 25 years that the movement has existed and especially during the last eight years, when that movement has been guided and controlled by Mr. Redmond.

"The first item in Parnell's program, as it is first in ours, is full national self-government for Ireland. (Applause.) Have we departed from that policy? Do we ever lose an opportunity of pressing forward the question of home rule in season and out of season, in England and in Ireland, in parliament and throughout the world? Why, only within the last 12 months, as Mr. Redmond told you today, when England attempted to make by law the man with the greatest future in the back ground, he and his party organized the Irish electors of Great Britain to wage war on any liberal who would be false to home rule; and the result was that in Manchester the leading statesman in the cabinet—the man with the greatest future and the greatest hope—was declared on the authority of the premier of England that at the next general election home rule is to be one of the vital issues to be submitted to the electors by the liberal party. (Applause.)

"What is the next question in the program of Parnell? It is the abolition in Ireland of landlordism by means of a universal system of land purchase. Why, my friends, an act has already been passed which in my judgment, in at least 15 years, will transfer the whole land of Ireland from the landlord to the tenant. (Applause.)

"Then to secure the restoration of the tenants to their lands in Connaught. We have already restored 2000 evicted tenants to their homes. One or two thousand more will be restored. There will be not a single wounded soldier of the Irish people neglected or deserted. (Applause.) And that principle of the constitution of Parnell and of our constitution will be again established as one of the results of our labor.

"Then complete educational equality for all creeds in Ireland. Only those who subscribed to the Catholic faith suffered from the inequality before the English law. The university bill of this year will secure these rights and those opportunities for higher education which will enable the youthful intellect of Ireland to qualify itself, which will break the bonds that have fettered the intellect and mental power of the brightest race in the world and allow our youth to go out into the market in competition with people of other faiths and enable them to win their way with well-equipped minds and intellectual development to positions of trust and responsibility which never can be guaranteed to these youth without the benefits thereby secured. (Applause.)

Reference to Sinn Fein

"Then there are the compulsory extension of the law providing laborers with cottages, and the proposal as to the preservation of the Gaelic language and the measures for the promotion of Irish industries, all of which Mr. Redmond has told you about and for which our party has done so much and will do more."

"Now, my friend, with that record before you, you are asked at this critical moment in Ireland's fortunes to change all this and set up some other policy vaguely described by various people in a variety of ways. What is the alternative to the policy of the Irish party? It is what is known in Ireland, though it is practically done not exist in Ireland, as Sinn Fein, and it is known in America as the policy of the Clan-na-gael. (Hisss.) Well, what is the Sinn Fein? (Hisss.)

"When I came to America six years ago I was surprised that any Irish-American could offer any opposition to this movement. I met a great many people, some of whom differed from us, and I invited them to offer their alternative to the policy of political sanity and genuine reform which has been presented to you today by the leader of the Irish party. They told me that their policy was physical force. Well, I have the greatest possible admiration for people who believe in physical force. I have the greatest contempt for people who talk about physical force and don't believe in it. (Loud applause.)

"At all events, to me the policy of physical force under present conditions and the conditions that existed then was so ludicrous—and I speak as one who comes from Ireland and knows the conditions—that I could not possibly argue or reason with men who put forward such impudent and impossible theories; and I come back here at the end of six years and find that the same policy of opposition and misrepresentation goes on.

"I invite our critics and assailants now to tell us: Do they still cling to the old policy of physical force? The men who four years ago told me I was a traitor to Ireland because I told them it was impossible, now state in the very first line of their circulars that physical force is impossible. (Laughter.)

"They would have our parliamentary party retire from Westminster and refuse to acknowledge English law in Ireland. But where would have been all these reforms for Ireland, if we had done that? (Applause.) If these men impeach us, we are entitled to turn on our assailants and ask them to allow us to examine their credentials." (Loud applause.)

From New Zealand

James Gleason of New Zealand made one of the most taking speeches of the day. Speaking with a decidedly English accent, Mr. Gleason said:

"I am probably the first New Zealander who has ever addressed an Irish audience in Boston. I am here quite by accident, now on the tail end of a journey round the world, but of all the sights I have seen there is no spectacle more inspiring to me than this demonstration of Irish patriotism here today.

"I notice on one of the banners here the name of John Boyle O'Reilly. I may be of interest to you to know that I have had the honor of seeing the prison cell in which a cruel English government imprisoned John Boyle O'Reilly for many years in West Australia and I have tried and been unable to lift the chains with which that patriot and orator's feet were manacled and weighed down.

"England the other day sent to our country the demand that we should double our contribution to the English navy. She thinks we have forgotten O'Reilly, but she will learn we have not forgotten him. (Applause.) The reply to that demand of England was that we deeply regret it is almost in the words of Mr. Deakin, the prime minister—'We cannot send you any further contributions to the navy. We are about to build a battleship of our own. Long live Australia!' (Loud applause.)

Mr. Gleason then told of the state railways in the colony, its pioneer work in establishing the old-age pensions, and of the leading statesmen and officials in Australia, who were men of Irish birth or lineage. He said that colony would give the Irish envoys $100,000 for the cause the next time they visited the islands.

Anty Drudge Explains Why the Waist Went into Holes.

Mrs. Don'tno—"I must have been cheated in that woolen waist. It pulled right into holes in the washtub."

Anty Drudge—"You wouldn't think you were cheated if you got a leg of mutton which boiled that tender. It was the boiling that weakened your waist just as it makes meat or vegetables tender. Stop boiling your clothes. Wash them with Fels-Naptha in cool or lukewarm water, and they'll wear twice as long."

What are clothes made of?

Wool, cotton or linen, animal or vegetable fibre.

What does boiling or scalding do to them?

Makes them tender just as it does meat or vegetables.

What does hard rubbing on a washboard do to them?

Wears them into holes before their time.

Are you abusing your clothes like that in the weekly wash?

Burning up fuel and working like a slave to do it?

There's a far better way to get clean clothes.

Let Fels-Naptha soap take the dirt out of them in cool or lukewarm water without boiling, without hard rubbing.

It saves the clothes—makes them last twice as long.

In summer or winter, it saves fuel, time, hard work, bother and discomfort.

Directions for the Fels-Naptha way of washing are printed on the back of the red and green wrapper.

Follow them carefully.

ment, was most cordially welcomed.

He said that to attempt to say anything fresh or new after the feast of oratory already enjoyed and especially after Messrs. Redmond and Devlin had spoken, would be like trying to find diamonds in a Connaught cottage. (Laughter.)

He spoke of the vast improvement in the houses of the peasantry in Ireland over conditions 20 or 30 years ago. "Mr. Fitzgibbon told you," said he, "that if the whole Irish race disappeared from Ireland he could begin over again with you Americans and start the movement for the improvement of the whole Irish race and not go from Ireland. They hold it now and will continue to hold it. (Applause.)

"We have men here and there—not numerous, I think—telling us that the parliamentary party is a sham party and a humbug party. Well, it is very nearly too much to bear when I hear things like that.

"I was struck by Mr. Redmond's announcement as to the end of the repeal. If some of those crying for force would now arm themselves they would find no one interfering with them, but I venture to say that they will come over to fight as they went to South Africa. (Derisive laughter.) They will stay at home." (Applause.)

Mr. O'Callaghan next offered a few cheering words. He said: "I say to you tonight, may you all live long enough to see Ireland a self-governing country. I am 67 years old, but I hope to live long enough to see John Redmond's statue raised aloft on O'Connell street, Dublin, sitting in the place of that English admiral, Lord Nelson. (Applause.)

"The amount of money we have raised here today for this glorious cause will surprise the world, and convince the enemies of Ireland that the people of America will ever uphold the hands of Mr. Redmond in his glorious work." (Applause.)

The convention closed at 7 o'clock with the singing of "God Save Ireland."

THE RIVET TRIAL

Chief Justice Aiken has named Monday, October 5, as the date of the trial of Napoleon Rivet, charged with the murder of Joseph Gallou, the trial to take place in this city. Wm. H. Bent, esq., counsel for the defendant, states that it is impossible for him to be ready for trial at that time, and will make an effort to have it delayed until the last of October or first of November. It will require two judges to sit on the case the indictment being for murder; and the assignment of the date was with this requirement in view, as two superior court judges will be available then.

INJURIES FATAL

Constable Stabbed by Cranberry Picker

MIDDLEBORO, Sept. 24.—Constable James E. Vaughan of South Carver, who was stabbed last Sunday while attempting to arrest John Monte, a Portuguese cranberry picker, on the charge of assault, died last night of his injuries.

Vaughan has been at the home of Gustavus H. Long, near the scene of Sunday's battle. Up to yesterday his condition appeared favorable for recovery but he had a sudden sinking spell yesterday afternoon and died a few hours later. He was about 50 years old.

The struggle in which Constable Vaughan received his death wound resulted from his efforts to arrest Monte, who was wanted for an attempted assault on Arthur C. Atwood, the foreman of the cranberry picking grounds where Monte was employed. Atwood assisted Vaughan when the constable went to arrest Monte and after the constable had been stabbed in the side by Monte's dirk, Atwood drew a revolver and fired a shot which entered Monte's temple killing him instantly. Atwood, who was himself stabbed several times, is at the hospital in Plymouth and is reported as on the road to recovery.

BOY WAS KILLED

Little One Struck by Automobile

BEVERLY, Sept. 24.—An automobile driven by Charles M. Amoy, of Boston, struck and fatally injured Donald Gilman, the seven-year-old son of Daniel Gilman, on Haskell street, late yesterday afternoon. The Gilman boy, who was returning from school, ran suddenly in front of the car. Mr. Amoy ran his automobile up on the sidewalk to avoid hitting the boy but the distance between them was too small. Mr. Amoy picked the lad up and after taking him in the car to the residence of Dr. Jackson went to the police station and gave himself up. He furnished $5000 bonds for his appearance in court.

Later the boy was taken to the Beverly hospital where he succumbed to his injuries.
